Brother of Walter Reuther Is Wounded by Shots Through Window; Both Men Hold High Office in UAW-CIO; Walter Calls Act One of 'Terrorism'

Detroit, May 25 (AP)—A stealthy gunman, firing through a window, shot and wounded Victor Reuther of the C.I.O. United Auto Workers Union at his home last night.

Badly hurt, the 37-year-old unionist faces the possible loss of his right eye, pierced by a shotgun pellet.

Thus, for a second time within 13 months, police today sought a man, or men, apparently bent on murder in the U.A.W.-C.I.O.'s Reuther family.

The union's president, Walter Reuther, escaped death at the hands of a mysterious assailant the night of April 20 last year.

That attack remains unsolved despite one of the most painstaking investigations in Detroit's police records.

Walter called his brother's shooting "another dastardly and un-American trick."

Nelbach Addresses Health Dinner; Lauds Local Work

Assisted in Organization of County Group in 1909; Plunkett Tells Gains

There should be but one single unofficial health association on the state level, and a similar health association in each county to promote specialized health causes, George J. Nelbach, consultant to the State Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health of the State Charities Aid Association, said in this city Tuesday night.

Nelbach addressed 107 members at the 40th anniversary dinner of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association at the Governor Clinton Hotel. As executive secretary of the state committee, he helped organize the local association in 1909.

"Consideration of efficiency, economy, harmony and unity call for one general unofficial citizen health association, instead of a multiplicity of separate, independent, un-related and necessarily competing organizations," he said.

He urged members of the tuberculosis and health association to continue to take up other health problems, such as tuberculosis comes under control, they "pass out of the picture."

He congratulated the Ulster county organization, noting that it has, as have numerous others in the state, added to its program a public education and stimulation for the control of diphtheria, of venereal diseases, of typhoid fever, of heart diseases and for the promotion of mental hygiene.

Among the functions of non-official organizations listed by Nelbach in his emphasis on the future was the task of undertaking some of the newer lines of work in public health for a temporary period "for the purpose of demonstrating to the county government and to the tax-paying public the need and value of such lines of work."

"The main function of tuberculosis and health associations is to inform and educate public opinion about the causes and treatment of public health problems," he said.

In outlining the steps taken in forming the Ulster county association and in forwarding the work of tuberculosis care and prevention in the early days of the state committee, Nelbach paid tribute to the late Judge Joseph Fowler, first chairman of the county group.

In addition to his local work, Judge Fowler greatly assisted Nelbach in framing the bills which were introduced into the State Legislature dealing with tuberculosis as a public health problem, Nelbach said.

McCarran Hopes To Oust Chairman

Lillenthal, He Says, Is Not Man for A.E.C. Post; Is 'Unworthy'

Washington, May 25 (AP)—Senator McCarran (D-Nev.), chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said today he "hopes" that David E. Lillenthal will be ousted as chairman of the Atomic Energy Committee "because I think he is unworthy of the place."

McCarran's views added fresh flames to a drive being engineered by Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), ranking G.O.P. member of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy, to have President Truman fire the A.E.C. head.

Lillenthal has come under Capitol Hill fire for (a) permitting at least one Communist and several others whose backgrounds have been questioned to be awarded A.E.C. scientific fellowships, and (b) for not taking what

Last Honors Are Paid to James V. Forrestal; Burial Takes Place in Arlington Cemetery

Washington, May 25 (AP)—The nation paid last honors today to James V. Forrestal.

Led by President and Mrs. Truman, high officials of the government and leaders in the United States' business life gathered where the Unknown Soldier lies, in funeral services for the first secretary of defense, Bright sunshine bathed Arlington National Cemetery for the ceremonies.

Forrestal died in the early hours of Sunday in a leap from a tower at the Bethesda Naval Hospital where he had been under treatment after a collapse from overwork. He left behind a book opened at a Greek poetic passage taken as a clue to his last thoughts:

"Better to die and sleep the never-waking sleep, than linger on and dare to live, when the soul's life is gone."

Big Three Back New Republic

Soviets Move to Replace Setup With 4-Power Rule; Present Five Points Hits at Autonomy

Local Government Plan Would End Under Proposals

Paris, May 25 (AP)—The three western powers stood firm today behind the new west German republic against a Soviet move to replace it with Four-Power control over Germany.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Foreign Ministers Robert Schuman of France and Ernest Bevin of Britain, in turn, declared the clock must not be turned back to what they termed "disastrous paralysis."

They were referring to the five-point proposal of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky to reestablish quadripartite control of Germany through the old Allied Control Council for Germany and the Berlin Kommandatura.

The Russian representative walked out of the Allied Control Council in March, 1948, declaring the body "dead." The Kommandatura has not been functioning since last year when the Communist-dominated east Berliners boycotted regular elections and set up a puppet government for the Soviet sector of the city. The election produced an anti-Communist administration in the western sectors of the city.

Vishinsky's five-point proposal was:

1. Reestablish the Control Council as supreme governing body in Germany.
2. Reestablish the Allied Kommandatura in Berlin.
3. Create an all-German state council, founded on German economic organs existing at present in the Soviet zone and the three western zones.
4. Establish an all-Berlin city government on the basis of elections to be set by the Kommandatura.
5. Create a new four-power supervisory authority over the Ruhr industrial basin to be aided by a consultative body of representatives of neighboring nations, such as the three Benelux nations and Poland, Czechoslovakia and Denmark.

American sources later interpreted Vishinsky's proposal as nullifying the west German republic and pointed out it would have deprived Germans of the local government they received in the occupation statute drafted by the three western powers.

The proposal also would have implied recognition for the "Peoples Congress" regime in eastern Germany and would have meant sacrificing the western-minded west Berlin city government, these sources said.

The French point of view emphasized that the proposal would wipe out international authority for the Ruhr, set up by six western nations last year for the regulation and distribution of Ruhr products.

"At the conclusion of the foreign ministers session yesterday, Bevin stressed that all four think over Vishinsky's proposal again, but he, with Acheson and Schuman, insisted they could not 'go back' on the west German regime and plans to include this area in Marshall Plan aid."

Reds Enter Shanghai in Bitter Fight

Nationalists Blow All Possible Installations at Airfield; Fortress Is Smashed

Mansions Is Hit

Big Apartment House Is Shaken by Red Salvo

Shanghai, May 25 (AP)—Communists marched into Shanghai today, and a roaring battle far worse than the siege developed.

Retreating Nationalists, trying to fight their way back to Wusung and escape, were blowing up everything they could. At 9 p. m. the whole horizon to the north seemed to explode.

Apparently the government soldiers, pulling back before the advancing Communists, blew up the fuel dumps, bombs and ammunition installations at Kiangyin airfield.

All the while cannonading shook the city as the Reds smashed with everything available at Wusung fortress. The Communists were determined to make the Nationalist escape corridor a bloody avenue if they can't close it.

The Reds, overrunning the world's most populous country, gave Communism its largest city by occupying almost all of Shanghai.

Stubborn Nationalist rear guards held fast at bridges across Soochow creek. Red mortars smashed up the main city post-office near the Szechuan road bridge.

Towering Broadway mansions, an apartment building where several Americans and British are trapped behind the Nationalist lines, was shaken up.

Even in the old international settlement in the downtown area small arms fire crackled as the Reds hunted down small groups of Nationalists still holed up in buildings.

Obviously the Nationalist rear guard was buying time in last stand fights. They want the bulk of their comrades to deploy on the

Council to Consider Consolidation of Bonds

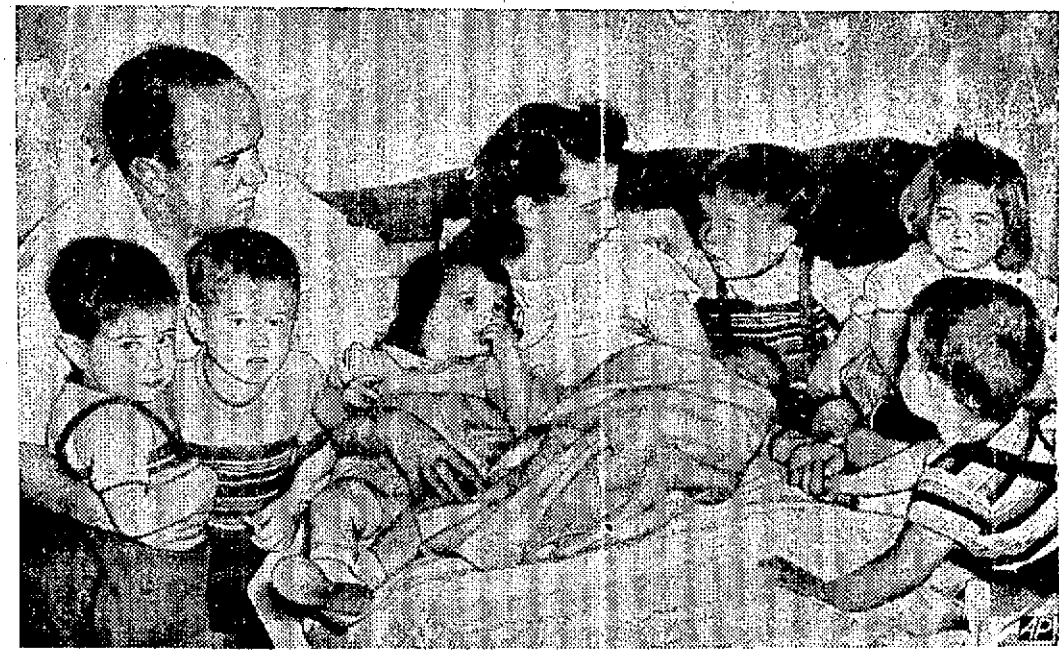

Legislative action to authorize the sale of $158,000 in bonds for equipment building and construction will be taken by the Common Council at a special meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p. m.

The bond issue was authorized by action of the council earlier this year.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk in his announcement calling the special meeting explained that it is to be held "to determine the terms, details, form and sale for the consolidation of a single issue of bonds: $158,000 street, equipment and building construction serial bonds—1949 of the City of Kingston in Ulster county, N. Y., a dividend for their sale."

The action is a routine procedure to arrange for public sale of the bonds June 22, by City Treasurer Oscar A. Goodsell.

Harvell Attorney Asks for Leniency

Prior Tells Jury Client Not Guilty of Murder in First Degree

Hudson, N. Y., May 25 (AP)—The prosecution today called two young cousins accused of slaying a Hudson businessman "mad dog killers" and demanded that they be sent to the electric chair.

N. LeVan Haver, special prosecutor, described the defendants in his summation to the jury as "mad, dog killers" who deserved "no consideration, no mercy, no recommendation of leniency."

The defendants, Richard Harvell, 18, of Hudson, and Lawrence Allgood, 20, of Union, N. J., are charged with first degree murder in the robbery-slaying last November 21 of Martin M. Kittell, 48, operator of a dry cleaning establishment.

Haver said the two were "guilty of a deliberate, cold blooded, willful, vicious murder and deserve only one kind of punishment. Martin Kittell never had a chance."

John W. Scully, court-assigned counsel for Allgood, said "This is not a case for the electric chair," in his summation.

He advised the jury that it could return a verdict of guilty first degree murder with a recommendation that the defendants be sentenced to life imprisonment.

The case was recessed until 1:30 p. m. (E.S.T.) at which time Trial Justice Isadore Bookstein was scheduled to charge the jury. The case was expected to reach the jury of 10 men and two women late today.

Fair Makes Plea

Hudson, N. Y., May 25 (AP)—Counsel for Richard Harvell, one of two young cousins charged with first degree murder in the slaying of a Hudson businessman, pleaded with the jury today not to doom his client to the electric chair.

Daniel H. Prior, Harvell's attorney, declared in his summation at the trial of the two that "I don't think he's innocent."

Prior declared, however, that

Mayors of Newburgh, Po'keepsie, Yonkers Invited to Preview

New York, May 25 (AP)—The new owners of the Hudson River Day Line today gave city officials and other guests a preview of what's in store for thousands of excursionists this summer.

Outwardly a traditional riverboat of broad beam and lumbering lines, the day liner Alexander Hamilton revealed an interior as modern as the new look.

The ceremony recalled the close call the line had last November. Then the line's directors decided to abandon operations because of mounting costs.

But along came the new owners, headed by George Sanders, former city commerce commissioner, to save the fleet and its four riverboats from the scrap heap at a reported price of $800,000.

Line officials expect the tilt to ring pleasantly because of new entertainment features such as bandstands, dance floors, special television areas, radios, children's movie theatres and redesigned dining rooms and bars.

The new ownership said most improvements were meant for efficiency, cleanliness and safety. The salons and interiors have had a face-lifting, but the exteriors of the liners are largely unchanged.

That, the owners say, is because the riverboats' silhouettes are as American as apple pie and the Currier and Ives prints on which their early operations are stamped.

Invited to today's preview were the mayors of Newburgh, Poughkeepsie and Yonkers.

Former GI's Cause Shelving Of Pay Boost for Brass

Washington, May 25 (AP)—A bill aimed mainly at raising the pay of high-ranking military men was stranded on a committee shelf today—tossed there in a surprise uprising of former G.I.'s in the House.

The House suddenly decided late yesterday to return to committee an administration-backed bill to revise present military pay scales. That killed it, at least for the present.

"The moral," said one freshman Democrat afterwards, "is: Be kind to an enlisted man; someday he may be elected to Congress."

The measure would have granted pay boosts ranging from three per cent for the next to lowest enlisted rank to almost 30 per cent for generals and admirals. The measure's backers explained that high-ranking officers hadn't received a general raise in years.

Rep. Sulton (D-Tenn.)—a former navy enlisted man and officer—led the attack on the measure.

"I'm for a pay raise," he told the House, "but I'm for an equitable pay raise. Too long has the brass had all the breaks."

The team spearheaded by Sulton lost all its battles but won the war. After failing repeatedly to whittle down the benefits for top officers, it finally succeeded in getting the House to send the bill back to the Armed Services Committee for "study." The vote was 227 to 163.

The bill would have added more than $400,000,000 to the annual sum the country is spending now on military pay.

Its passage was considered fairly certain. It had unanimous committee support and no organized opposition was evident during three days of debate.

But on the final day, the attack started—slowly. Sulton teamed up with Rep. Bolling (D-Mo.)—a veteran of four years' service in the Pacific—in an unsuccessful effort to trim sharply the increases proposed for the ranks of major and lieutenant commander on up.

Sulton lost later on an attempt to cut out money allowances which three and four-star officers receive on top of their pay.

Also defeated were attempts by other young veterans in the House, including Rep. Furcolo (D-Mass.) and Ford (R-Mich.), to reduce extra-hazard bonuses for officers.

Stichman's Approval Is Still on Book

City Housing Authority Chairman Davis Sends Letter to Council, Ask Reconsideration

Funds May Be Lost

Failure to Accept Money Now, Davis Says, May Mean Withdrawal

State approval of a local housing project as suggested in the Democratic minority report recently adopted by the Common Council "is not feasible and cannot be approved by the Commissioner for a loan and subsidy," said a state letter released today for publication by Arthur A. Davis, Jr., head of the Kingston Housing Authority.

Davis also released a copy of his letter to the Common Council urging reconsideration of the local housing proposal, which the letter from the office of Herman T. Stichman, state housing commissioner, indicates is still possible.

The reply from Stichman's office, signed by Attorney Herman Cohen, State of New York Division of Housing, stressed that the state law "requires the clearance of substandard and unsanitary areas," and held that "It is less costly to build and operate multiple family housing."

'Spread' Was Asked

This was in reply to proposals in the Common Council's minority report which opposed "slum clearance," asked for housing in various wards, and suggested that tenants be given an option to purchase. The report was adopted at a recent council session seven to six, after the majority report was rejected by the same vote.

Cohen's letter advised that "Commissioner Stichman has not withdrawn his approval" of the local application and awaits "with interest" decision of the council "with respect to providing this needed housing for your citizens."

Davis in his letter to the council suggesting further consideration of housing, stressed that if the commissioner withdraws his approval, the state funds set aside for the low-rent housing project here "may never again be available to us and for our use."

Honorable Arthur A. Davis, Jr.,
Chairman
Kingston Housing Authority
City Hall
Kingston, New York

Dear Mr. Davis:

This will acknowledge receipt of your letter of May 12, 1949, addressed to Commissioner Stichman, enclosing a report adopted by the Common Council of your city at a special meeting held May 10, 1949. You request that we give this report our consideration and comment on the matters contained therein.

The report opposes the plan now being considered, and favors instead a proposal to erect housing units of two or three family type in various wards of the city on city-owned land. The reasons given for the plan are that such structures can supposedly be built economically than multiple dwellings; that they can be erected in substantial numbers and be ready for occupancy at an earlier date; that tenants can be given an option to purchase; that there would be no displacement of families and tenants would have a free choice of location; existing schools and other city facilities would be adequate.

The plan set forth in the report adopted by the Common Council is not feasible and cannot be approved by the Commissioner for a state loan and subsidy. It is less costly to build and operate multiple family housing, and our extra-hazard bonuses for officers.

Dewey Had Better Help From His Direct Supporters

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Reporter)

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 25 (AP)—Governor Dewey beat President Truman in one thing at the polls last November.

According to a new study, he got better support from the voters who wanted him to win. A higher percentage of Deweyites actually voted than did people favoring Mr. Truman.

Truman, in short, didn't win through Republican failure to vote.

But Mr. Truman topped Dewey in capturing voters who waited until the last minute to make up their minds.

These are two of the election post-mortem findings made by the survey research center at the University of Michigan. It called the turn on the election. The study last October showed Dewey and Truman neck and neck, with more than 20 per cent of all prospective voters undecided which party to support. Another study in November showed Truman getting 50 per cent of the votes and Dewey 45. The actual vote was 50 for Truman and 42.5 per cent for Dewey.

To learn why so many pollsters had missed the boat, the Survey Research Center went back and talked to exactly the same people it had interviewed in October. Its method of getting opinions is based on an extremely careful method of picking a cross-section of people throughout the country. The method is so good that the Federal Reserve Board relies on the Center's findings in shaping its ideas about economic conditions, present and future.

Some of the things learned from voters, summed up by Dr. Angus Campbell, director of the Survey Research Center, are:

Most voters had made up their minds before the campaigns started. This was true especially of those who did vote Republican. The Republicans thus had a majority during most of the campaign.

A higher percentage of those who wanted Dewey instead of Truman actually cast their ballots.

In mid-October, 20 per cent of voters didn't know how they would vote. When they did decide, they favored President Truman.

Mr. Truman was favored substantially by those who decided during the campaign. He was favored 4 to 1 by those who decided in the last two weeks.

Peoples in cities decided how they would vote later than people in rural areas. People in cities are heavier voters than rural dwellers.

Favored Some Groups

Asked why people favored their man, 48 per cent said Truman favored some particular group, which won him support. Only 11 per cent thought Dewey won votes by favoring some particular group and they named big business as this group, Dr. Campbell said.

Sixteen per cent thought Truman did something in the campaign. Only four per cent thought Dewey was meeting the issues. Six per cent said Truman had a weak campaign, but 26 per cent said Dewey's was weak.

The class split among voters was clear cut and significant, Dr. Campbell said.

Skilled and unskilled voters gave Truman his majority.

Voters in the professions and management were 4 to 1 for Dewey, and 75 per cent of them actually voted.

White collar workers were evenly divided on the candidates. Skilled and semi-skilled workers were 3½ to 1 for Truman.

Unskilled workers were 2 to 1 for Truman.

Farmers were 2 to 1 for Truman, but slightly more than half didn't vote.

Among college graduates who voted, their ballots were cast 3 to 1 for Dewey.

Three of every four union voters were for Truman. Twenty-seven per cent of union members didn't vote. Thirty-eight per cent of non-union members didn't vote.

In income groups, those making $5,000 a year or more were 2 to 1 for Dewey. Those with incomes between $4,000 and $5,000 were slightly in favor of Dewey. The votes were even in the group between $3,000 and $4,000. But people making $1,000 to $2,000 to $3,000 were 2 to 1 for Truman.

Murtagh May Close 10 Ticket Agencies

New York, May 25 (AP)—City Investigation Commissioner John M. Murtagh, who is investigating alleged widespread theatre ticket scalping, has moved for revocation of the license of a second ticket agency.

Murtagh says he expects to close at least 10 agencies before he winds up his inquiry. He has been checking the records of 32 agencies.

The commissioner said yesterday he had acted against the Phil Rosen Theatre Ticket Service, Inc. He declared it had failed to keep satisfactory records of ticket purchases for the musical hit "South Pacific."

Previously charged with similar violation of a state law was the John T. Ahearn agency.

License Commissioner Edward T. McCaffrey, who is cooperating in the investigation, issued a summons for Rosen to appear June 1 to show cause why his license should not be revoked.

The license commissioner will hear the Ahearn case next Tuesday.

Ticket records of 10 leading private clubs in the city were to be turned over to Murtagh today.

The commissioner subpoenaed the records Monday to determine what prices the clubs paid in obtaining tickets for members.

The clubs are the Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Columbia, University, Union League, Racquet and Tennis, River, New York Athletic and Downtown Athletic Clubs.

THE GERMAN VOTE

The Germans in the Soviet zone of Germany have delivered a damaging Sunday punch to the plans of their Russian overseers. They may well have wrecked the whole original strategy devised by the Russians for the meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers now in progress at Paris.

What was this rude setback? By Soviet admission, 34 per cent of the German voters in the Russian zone turned down a Communist-rigged list of delegates to a proposed nationwide Peoples Congress.

The ballot also stood as an expression for or against "German unity, a speedy peace treaty and withdrawal of all occupation troops." Hence the Russians concede that a third of the voters recorded themselves against the Soviet version of these objectives.

The Russians plainly had counted on favorable vote of perhaps 85 to 95 per cent. Following the pattern of totalitarian elections, the ballots gave voters no choice between candidates but, merely a chance to say "yes" or "no" to a single, hand-picked list.

Confident of heavy German support gained through this dubious "democratic" procedure, the Soviet Union expected to appear at Paris as the champion of German unity, strong central government and removal of occupation armies. It wanted this eastern zone backing as a trump card against the new government being set up in western Germany.

The resounding defeat of these hopes was a bitter pill. Said one German Communist: "This is the greatest bankruptcy in the history of the party."

It was clear from the start of voting that matters were not going well for the Russians. First scattered returns showed that out of 7000 votes cast, a comfortable majority had voted "no." Promptly the lid was clamped down on these embarrassing statistics, and silence was observed for 20 hours.

Finally the "official" results were announced. It is impossible to check them independently, but high German and western sources say that probably more than the voters, instead of a third, voted "no." There are signs the Communists threw out many "no" votes and counted numerous blank ballots as favorable.

But even the Russian account means 4,000,280 Germans had the courage to say "no." They said it in an atmosphere of terror. They said it despite the fact that they undoubtedly want national unity and withdrawal of foreign troops at the earliest moment.

One can only regret that courage of this high order was not put to better use in the earlier Germany, which submitted to Hitler's yoke.

One can only hope that this stout-hearted demonstration is indeed, as General Clay believes, a sign that Germans slowly are finding their way back toward the democratic fold. And one may wish that fear-ridden peoples in other lands under Russian domination take new heart from this example.

Frenchwomen, it is reported, have heard so much about the mechanical conveniences of American civilization that they believe we even have electric babysitters. Well, that is something for our inventive genius to work on.

A bridal couple in England had a sound recording made of the ceremony, for future reference. One thing they won't ever have to argue about is what they promised each other under the influence of the bridal veil.

YOU NEVER CAN TELL

More than half a dozen government witnesses in the trial of 11 leading Communists have testified they were undercover agents for the F.B.I. in the Communist Party.

A BAG OF CHEMICALS

It is in the courses of natural and social sciences, which begin in one manner or another in the earliest classes of the elementary schools, that our children are left helpless in a sea of confused ideas. Even the most conservative parents generally approve of such teachings because the child seems so clever when it knows how rabbits reproduce. It never occurs to them that the factual mind of the very young child is deeply impressed by the fact that there seems to be no sense in the accidents in life. And youth soon discovers that there is no higher intelligence, no supreme law of nature, that it is all chemistry and physics. Therefore there can be no moral system—and it's all bunk, anyhow!

I just came across a quotation in a magazine, "American Affairs," edited by Garret Garrett, who for many years wrote editorials for the Saturday Evening Post—when it was at its best. I always read American Affairs carefully because it is a meaty publication such as the Atlantic Monthly used to be when the great Elsie Sedgwick ran it. There are not many publications like that left in this country, their place having been taken by Milton Berle on television.

In American Affairs I found this nugget by Dr. Frederick Georg Juenger, described as "a very distinguished and pessimistic German thinker" who wrote "The Failure of Technology" in 1939 and hid it. This is the nugget:

"We can reasonably assume, for example, that an apple contains a number of substances that so far have eluded the chemist and the biologist. It is likewise quite certain that even if all these substances could be synthetically reproduced in a pill, they could not replace the apple. For the apple embodies a principle that is higher than the sum of its parts. It is not a lifeless preparation, like the substances that have been, or could be, extracted from it, but an expression of life that grows and smells and ripens and has fragrance. No doubt the wise thing to do is to eat the apple itself rather than swallow the vitamins which may be extracted from it. And I shall also show wisdom by eating the apple not for the sake of all the vitamins it contains, but because it is an apple. The difference is fundamental, for in the first instance I am acting like a sick person, in the second like a healthy one."

The truth of this must be obvious even to the most avid vitamin taker. I have personally consumed thousands of them, under instruction, what find that a heekstken does more to lift my soul than a curload of vitamins or even hormones. In fact, dancing an old-fashioned waltz, listening to Beethoven, Brahms, or Tchaikovsky, working in a garden, or holding converse with my dog, Brownie, will lift me higher than any make of B complex. As for a fine piece of pastry—but then the doctor says beware of obesity and diabetes! It is that "beware" that gives me the shivers.

Now, that motto of Dr. Juenger's may be a chemical compound physically propelled but it also is round and red and tangy and satisfying, particularly on a cold day in the autumn, when the maples are turning and the morning frost announces that winter will not be far away. And for me, it always tastes best in the Berkshire hills of Massachusetts, although Herbert Hoover prefers the streams of the Yellowstone and Madison rivers for such adventure.

What neither chemistry nor physics can provide are love and place and loveliness. And these are more accidental than the affinities which produce a blessed marriage or the love of a mother for a child. The universality of human emotions, their intensity and selflessness, have not been affected by environment or accident.

And once, explaining G.D. to my little child, I asked her to note how Brownie's mother, whose name is Dammitt, never worries when Brownie name is taken away and does not mind anything about Brownie, but how her own mother everlastingly concerns herself and protects and nurtures her with love. And the child could understand that he is not an accident but a gift from heaven. (Copyright, 1949, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

REST OF LUNG CURES TUBERCULOSIS

Although tuberculosis of the lungs still causes many deaths, the general public reads and hears so much about how the battle against tuberculosis is being won that they do not know that tuberculosis is still common.

I have spoken about visiting a friend in a sanitarium as a heavyweight boxer who wheeled into an adjoining bed. The latter, tuberculosis had developed, and he was now prepared to "rest" for two years to obtain a "cure."

It is the long rest necessary to bring about a cure that prompted specialists in tuberculosis to try to obtain rest for the affected lung by means of surgery. If the lung can be rested, the natural resistance of the body is usually sufficient to fight or kill off the organisms causing the tuberculosis.

In "Hygien," the health magazine, published by the American Medical Association, Dr. Louis Carr states that the lung can be rested by various methods and others—are to rest the lung and prevent or greatly decrease the movement in the affected lung when the patient breathes. As cavities in the lung keep the tubercle organisms alive and busy, anything that closes or partly closes or decreases the size of these cavities by pressure help to cure themselves. By closing the tube taking air to the affected lung, air cannot get in or out and so the tubercle organisms gradually die. As this happens the tubercle germs cannot live, thus halting or slowing up the progress of tuberculosis.

Among the methods of causing pressure against the walls of the cavity or hole in the lung is pneumothorax, in which air is injected around the lung so that it is pushed farther away from the chest wall and thus becomes smaller. Because it is squeezed smaller, the walls of the cavity get closer and closer together. The effect of this collapse or shrinking of the lung gives the lung rest, and rest is the cure of tuberculosis of the lung.

While pneumothorax is used more extensively than other mechanical method of collapsing the affected lung, other surgical methods, such as breaking up adhesions and removing several ribs, are used.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round
By Drew Pearson

Washington—President Truman and Vice President Barkley enjoyed some good-natured banter when Secretary of State Acheson left for the Paris conference. Both went to the airport to see Acheson off, Truman arriving first in dark, semi-diplomatic clothes, Barkley a few moments later wearing white flannels.

"Hey, V. P.," said Truman, hailing the vice president, "what did you do, forget to put on your pants this morning?"

Barkley merely grinned. When the Secretary of State waved from the step of the Paris-bound plane, the President said good-bye, but Barkley shouted, "Bon voyage!"

"What was that?" asked the President, with a kidding look at Barkley.

"I said bon voyage," Barkley replied.

Hailing French Ambassador Henri Bonnot who was nearby, the President made the Vice President repeat his French farewell so the French ambassador could check his pronunciation.

"V. P. I think you're just trying to show off," concluded Truman, as Acheson flew away.

State Department Spunking
Warren Austin, popular U. S. delegate to the United Nations, is now in the State Department doghouse—for disobeying orders.

Secretary Acheson is furious at him for deliberately ignoring instructions on what to do when the question of admitting Israel came up before the United Nations assembly. The Israelis were in flagrant violation of mediation orders from the U. N., so Acheson felt it was only proper for them to cool their heels at Lake Success.

Just before the vote, therefore, he sent Austin a four-page telegram carefully instructing him to vote for the admission of Israel but not to make any speeches supporting its admission.

Austin, however, paid no attention to these instructions. Instead, he made a strong speech championing the Israeli cause and, in addition, buttonholed dozens of foreign delegates, urging them to vote for Israel. His oratorical campaign was such a success that the new Jewish state was admitted.

Acheson told the Appropriations Committee, whose job incidentally is not primarily concerned with foreign policy, that the U. S. delegation had acted on instructions from the State Department.

mitted as the 59th member of the United Nations. Acheson is now trying to figure out what to do with the ex-Senator from Vermont for disobeying orders.

G.O.P. Senator Balks
The G.O.P. economy drive tripped over Minnesota's Sen. Dr. Thye the other day—and lost some of its momentum.

At a closed meeting of Republican senators, Thye had a few things to say about the 5 per cent across-the-board appropriation cuts. "I didn't make sense," he argued, for senators to plead for more money from the Appropriations Committee—sometimes privately—then turn round and vote a 5 per cent cut—publicly.

"Few of you," Thye wagged a finger at his colleagues, "haven't appeared before the Appropriations Committee and requested special appropriations. You were very grateful when your request was granted and wired your home folks to tell them about it."

Then these same senators came up on the floor and voted an overall 5 per cent cut, chided the ex-governor of Minnesota. Whacking off a straight 5 per cent is a most careless way of trimming the budget, he added.

"Some of you are members of the Appropriations Committee and sat through hearings and never objected to specific items," rationalized Thye, who used to be a chicken farmer. "There were many items with excess political moisture that could have been squeezed out. But instead of considering these individually, the Senate floor voted to cut everything 5 per cent."

Note: Missouri's Sen. Forrest Donnell added his amen to Thye's arguments, pointed out that soon everyone would simply ask for 5 per cent more if the Senate continued its arbitrary 5 per cent cuts.

Dallas Turns Franco Tide
Secretary of State Acheson was hauled over the coals by the Senate Appropriations Committee just before he left for Paris by Senators who wanted to know why the American delegation to the United Nations refused to vote for Franco Spain.

Acheson told the Appropriations Committee, whose job incidentally is not primarily concerned with foreign policy, that the U. S. delegation had acted on instructions from the State Department.

from the State Department. Senator Wherry pointedly tried to get Acheson to admit that there was a division in the American delegation to the U.N. on the issue.

Acheson didn't deny anything, nor did he admit anything.

"It was my responsibility and it was my decision," Acheson said.

Actually, Wherry was right. There was a major split inside the American delegation at the United Nations, and the voting was three to two against Franco. Favoring the Spanish dictator was Chief U. N. Delegate Warren Austin and Ray Acheson. On the other side were Mrs. Roosevelt and Ben Cohen. The deciding vote was cast by a surprising figure, John Foster Dulles—who voted against Franco.

Capital News Capsules
Good Paris Omen—Secretary of State Acheson, arriving in Paris, was encouraged to find that the Russians were sending the largest delegation in recent history to the Paris conference—74 experts. This is considered a good omen. The presence of a large delegation means the Russians are prepared to give and take on any issue that might be raised, without too much reference back to Moscow.

Atomic Energy Row—A backstage row over atomic energy information has broken out inside the Senate Appropriations Committee. Three Republicans—Senators Wherry of Nebraska, Bridges of New Hampshire and Ferguson of Michigan—asked the committee staff to dig up some technical data. But the subcommittee chairman, Democratic Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming, countermanded the order. He told committee clerks that anything the Republicans wanted to know must be cleared with him. When this got back to the G.O.P. Bridges called on Senator McKellar of Tennessee, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, and demanded a showdown. Further fireworks are scheduled for this week.

Two Reforms Are Suggested as Result of Death of Former Secretary James Forrestal
By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 25—Two reforms ought to emerge as a sequel to the tragic death of James Forrestal, public servant:

1. The enactment of a law forbidding individuals or organizations of any kind, including corporations, to make contributions to the campaign funds expended to elect a president or vice president of the United States. Congress should appropriate at least $3,000,000 every four years to each of the major parties, and a proportionate sum to the minor parties, so that each political party could state its case to the people.

2. The enactment of a new civil service plan to supplement the existing system, so that men with experience and proven ability in the policy-making departments of the government may be used in an advisory capacity or rotated from one position to another once they have finished their terms of office. Walter Lippmann has revealed significant conversations on this point which he had with the late Secretary Forrestal.

These two proposals are suggested because they had a part in the circumstances which led to the loss of one of the finest public servants the American government has ever had.

This correspondent has written about the disappointment Forrestal felt that he should have been the victim of political intrigue and attacked by persons inside the Truman administration after the November election because he did not contribute financially to the Truman campaign and because he looked on the post of secretary of defense as non-political.

There has come to light another piece of evidence as to the controlling part that manipulation of persons to high positions in the government. Thus, the text of a letter written by Lewis Douglas, ambassador to Great Britain, to Louis Johnson, now secretary of defense, who was soliciting money for the Truman campaign last summer, has just been published by Drew Pearson. That letter reads in part as follows:

"I came to London not because I wanted to come, for the title of ambassador holds for me no allurements whatsoever—it never has. It was understood that I would be completely non-political for this reason, even if I had the funds, it would be a mistake for me to make a contribution to the national committee."

The story is that Ambassador Douglas later was considered for the secretaryship of state by the President but that Louis Johnson blocked the idea by bringing the above-mentioned letter to the attention of Mr. Truman.

With the United States holding such an important responsibility in world affairs today, pressure upon ambassadors and ministers for campaign money is not conducive to nonpolitical service. Nor should the secretaryship of defense go to a political partisan. It ought to be a career job.

Mr. Truman himself outlined the need of his campaign for approximately $800,000 one day last summer in a private conference with Johnson, and the latter agreed to raise this sum of money. Whether the post of secretary of defense was definitely promised then or hinted at, or whether the President merely said that Johnson could later have anything he wanted if the election brought a victory, is immaterial at this time.

The fact remains that Louis Johnson became secretary of defense and resigned his position as director and special Washington counsel for the Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Company. It develops that this company is now to receive hundreds of millions of dollars in contracts just placed by the government for the building of B-36's. It develops also that campaign contributions were made in a private capacity—which is a legal right—by Floyd Odium of New York, chairman of the board of the Consolidated Vultee Company, the official records in Congress reveal that several other contributions were made through Mr. Odium to help pay campaign deficits after the election.

These coincidences are fully explicable. After all, an individual may make a campaign contribution and ask his friends to do likewise, because he believes in a political cause. And at the same time he can be serving as head of an efficiently operated company, like Consolidated Vultee, which specializes in a certain type of plane and which is capable of fulfilling government contracts for hundreds of millions of dollars. Likewise, Louis Johnson's prejudices in favor of the B-36's can be a matter of honest conviction. His interest in long-range bombers is not of recent origin, he expounded it against opposition when he was assistant secretary of war before the outbreak of World War II.

The point will be raised, however, whether the President of the United States should have to accept contributions from individuals connected with companies holding government contracts, or from any other class. It is in the public interest that candidates for president of the United States should have a chance to lay their case before the people. Congress should appropriate the money needed for campaign expenses. There never should be any more private contributions to the campaign fund for the election of a president and vice president or for the election of senators and representatives in Congress.

AS PEGLER SEES IT
By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The financial backers of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., do not thus far appear to have violated any law in electing him to Congress, but the brazen cynicism of this campaign is a shocking reminder of the historic Lorimer case. This was a job in which a group of rich industrialists bought a seat in the United States Senate by means of a slush fund spread around the Illinois Legislature. William Lorimer eventually was expelled from the Senate on the ground that his election had been obtained by fraud.

Granted that fraud, as defined in our existing laws, was not practiced on his behalf, young Roosevelt certainly got the benefit of practices which should be outlawed. The difference between the notorious Lorimer election and the similar use of money to elect Roosevelt is not moral but an arbitrary line of legal distinction.

Thus far, only corporations are forbidden to debauch the ballots by means of money. The same forbidding should be applied to unions, to "philanthropic" millionaires, to pseudo-charitable societies and to a variety of false-front "educational" pretenses which have developed through the cunning ingenuity of political shysters.

It is just as bad that a union, controlled by a few wilful bosses posing as "progressives," should pour money into an election as that U. S. Steel should do so. U. S. Steel and other soulless corporations are forbidden to contribute, whereas unions can shoot the votes. It is just as bad that individual rich men who operate expensive publicity machines to glorify themselves as benign patrons of the contemptible common man, should dump money into key campaigns as that Frank Costello or any other outright racketeer should do so.

For a dodge, David Dubinsky's union, the International Ladies Garment Workers, may insist that it is not buying votes but improving the minds of its members by financing an "educational project" in a given campaign. Dubinsky's outfit regularly collects from the employers an amount of money in the name of each worker which is popularly but erroneously supposed to be a vacation fund for that particular person. In practice, the individual gets much less when vacation time comes. The remainder is subject to disbursement by Dubinsky and a few others for purposes which they profess to deem advantageous to the rank and file, including "educational" works. Campaign propaganda often has been held by bosses to be the left wing to the education work. If it is, it should be held there nevertheless.

Lorimer was elected to the U. S. Senate in 1909. In 1912, Clarence S. Funk, the general manager of the International Harvester Company, testified that Edward Hines, the lumber millionaire, had said to him: "Vote for Lorimer, or you're down there in Springfield but it cost us about $100,000 to do it."

The term "slush fund" entered our political language during these investigations, and the phrase "we put Lorimer over" resounded in our press and our legislative chambers. Albert Lasker, the retired millionaire advertising genius with a belated passion for good works of the New Deal type, should remember all this. He is a Chicago man and he was a Republican and chairman of the old Shipping Board in the Harding administration.

In recent years, conscious of his money-power, Lasker has acted as a very superior fellow with a benign mission to promote birth control and guide the inferior judgment of the common man to sound decisions.

Scarlet Fever

Scarlet fever, a communicable disease that can lead to severe complications, gets its name from the red rash which usually accompanies it.

Scarlet fever is caused by a tiny germ known as the "hemolytic streptococcus"—one of the same family of germs which causes streptococcal sore throat, diphtheria and other infections. As a matter of fact, streptococcal sore throat and scarlet fever are synonymous except that some people having streptococcal sore throat develop a rash. This is known as "scarlet fever." Others have only the sore throat without developing a rash.

Although spread most frequently from person to person, scarlet fever may also be contracted by people who drink raw unpasteurized milk from a cow with an under infected with human hemolytic streptococci. Milk may also be infected by an infected person. The disease strikes most frequently in winter and late spring, and most cases occur in children between six and ten years of age. Many years ago, almost every case of scarlet fever was a severe one, and many children died of it. The disease now seems to occur more frequently in a milder form. Furthermore, we have learned more about preventing its spread and curing for its victims, so that the number of deaths from scarlet fever has been greatly reduced. However, scarlet fever is still highly contagious and the many complications it may cause—ear infections, inflammation of the kidneys and of the joints, and damage to the heart—may be severe.

The first symptoms of the disease include sore throat and often nausea, vomiting, and a chill. The pulse quickens and the temperature rises rapidly, sometimes to 104 or 106 degrees.

When a rash does develop (the "scarlet" fever), it usually comes between 24 and 48 hours after the onset of early symptoms. The bright red rash usually comes first on the neck and chest, and then spreads rapidly over the body.

The doctor should be called at the first sign of any early symptoms which may mean scarlet fever, so that he may prescribe treatment which will ward off complications. If complications do occur, prompt medical care reduces their severity.

Since scarlet fever is easily spread, the doctor will suggest precautions to be taken in a household where a person has scarlet fever to protect other members of the family.

The suggestion was made by Bernard Katzen, president of the National Republican Club, in addressing the club. The group is composed largely of metropolitan New Yorkers.

Katzen said Forrestal had sacrificed his life as wartime under-secretary of the navy, secretary gulin, Texas, who was sentenced to die last week. Calvin Dennis denied participation in the crime. But he admitted being present when Miss Farnsworth was slugged and carried into the jungle Dec. 11. After the girl was raped she was left to die.

U. S. Grants Permit For Narrows Span

New York, May 25 (AP)—Robert Moses, chairman of the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority, says further financing studies lie ahead in planning for The Narrows bridge, which was approved yesterday in Washington.

Construction of a suspension bridge across The Narrows in New York harbor to link Brooklyn and Staten Island received final military approval.

The city authority headed by Moses submitted the plans.

Moses said last night: "We're happy to have the permit. It settles the question of whether we were to have such a span."

He said the approval of the plans would have a definite effect on city planning in Brooklyn and Staten Island, particularly in areas near the bridge site.

Moses would not predict when work on the project could be started.

He has long contended that the bridge would help ease automobile traffic congestion and supply easy access to New Jersey and points south and west for traffic from Brooklyn and Long Island.

Is Taken to Hospital

New York, May 25 (AP)—A woman clinging to her fingers to a ledge on the 14th floor of the Plymouth Hotel was pulled to safety yesterday while a hushed crowd watched from the street. Police were summoned when passersby saw the woman, later identified as Mrs. Evelyn Gates, of New Hyde Park, N. Y., standing on the ledge. She then lowered herself down the building's facade, her hands gripping the ledge. Just then, a policeman rushed through a window, grabbed her wrists and hauled her back up. She was taken to a hospital for observation.

Young Nurse Wounds Son, Shoots Himself

Alexandria, La., May 25 (AP)—A young registered nurse critically wounded her infant son yesterday, then fired three bullets into her abdomen. Acting Sheriff Walter L. Murrell of Rapides Parish (county) reported.

Murrell said family trouble caused Mrs. R. K. Parker, Jr., 25, to shoot her two-year-old son, Robert, and herself with a .22-caliber pistol. Both are expected to recover.

The woman's husband, a postman who was held for questioning, was reported to have left for work a few minutes before the shooting, Murrell said.

political decisions. He is not alone in this pretentiousness but is one of a small group of dough-heavy New Deal mischief-makers who know that money can and does swing elections.

"The expulsion of Lorimer from the United States Senate was not the only consequence of the exposure. Illinois then adopted the popular election of senators and warnings of those who argued that this would degrade the quality of the senators and, in fact, abolish the Senate except in name. Senators ceased to represent their states as sovereignties and became representatives of 'the people' and their parties. Thus, now we have actually two Houses of Representatives instead of one House and one Senate."

George Sokolsky, the scholar, who lives in the 20th New York district where young Roosevelt won, carefully watched the campaign. He reports that at least $250,000 and possibly as much as $400,000 was spent to elect F.D.R. Jr.

Young Roosevelt was a carpet-bagger from outside the district. Dubinsky is an outsider and most of the campaign workers were sent in from outside. Sokolsky, an old friend of Dubinsky, finally agreed that Dubinsky had not freed his mind of un-American political concepts inherent in the democratic socialism of his eastern European background.

Incidentally, the "party" which nominated him was the so-called Liberty party, a house organization of the Garment Workers Union, controlled personally by Dubinsky. It is an artificial party. His union need not report as campaign expenditures money spent on the "education" of his subjects.

At the same time, reports were frankly issued by Roosevelt's backers, that Bernard Baruch, Lasker, Marshall Field and paper-cellar Joe Davies, the old Wisconsin bumpkin who got rich in New Deal politics and richer still by an autumnal marriage, had lavished money on the campaign. They are all outsiders.

Baruch's pose as an elder statesman and philosopher becomes unconvincing in view of many inconsistencies and a lack of the courage to speak publicly his true opinions. Apart from that, he and the other three all know that the money used to swing an election is just as dirty as any corporation's money. They should not expect intelligent people to believe that they pour money into elections without expectation of practical return. They didn't get rich that way.

President Truman threw that one into Baruch's face in his notorious insulting letter during the campaign of last fall. Baruch took it lying down rather than invite discussion of the charges.

Many New Deal millionaires acting as outsiders are in a position to nullify the votes of actual citizens and make the public pay the cost of this permanent political injury. They can do this by changing the cost of the "educational" phase of their private, tax-free "foundations."

Local Travel Agent at New York Receptions

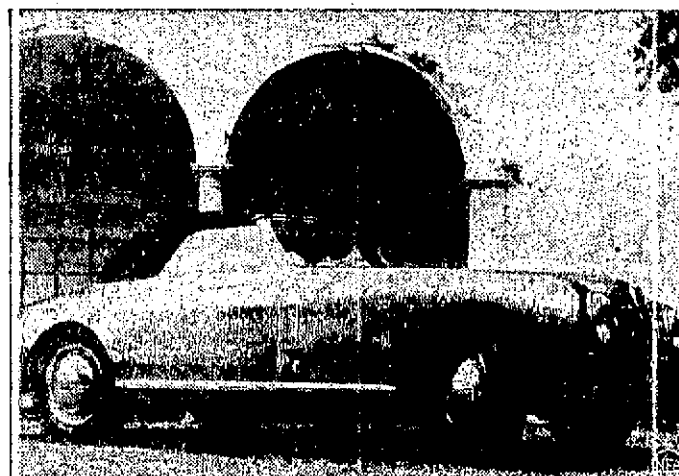

The staff of the Cosmopolitan Shipping Company were hosts on Tuesday, to members of the travel fraternity aboard the new liner "Atlantic" which sailed from New York. Jack Greenwald represented Greenwald's Travel Service of this city at an inspection and dinner aboard the new liner which is making her inaugural run from New York to Mediterranean ports.

The "Atlantic" formerly the "Matsonia," will be the fastest passenger vessel operating to and from the Mediterranean, with 10-day service to Naples via Barcelona, Cannes and Genoa. Reconditioning of this famous liner, well-known to thousands of Americans during her service in the Pacific has just been completed.

Today, Mr. Greenwald is the guest of Pan American World Airways at a reception at Idlewild Airport for the new Clipper America, the world's largest, newest, fastest and most luxurious plane ever built. Now in active service for Pan American, this new addition to the Clipper fleet has shortened flight times to Bermuda, Europe and Hawaii, the runs on which she is now operating.

The first double-deck passenger plane to be placed in service, the Clipper America has seating accommodations for 75 passengers: 61 seats in the passenger cabin and 14 seats in the spacious Club Lounge. At night, 36 seats can be converted into 18 wide sofa berths. With a normal cruising speed of 340 miles per hour, her cabins are pressurized so that absolute comfort is maintained at any altitude.

"Trade With Cappy and Be Happy"

Pitching Horseshoes

By BILLY ROSE

Our second night in Shanghai, a Chinese newspaperman took us to see one of the hit plays on Nanking Road, the Broadway of the town and, all through the first act, neither Eleanor nor I had any idea of what was going on.

To begin with, the only scenery on stage was a three-panel screen, a couple of kitchen chairs and a small red inelegant table.

The orchestra, squatting down front stage-left, was sawing like sixty on tiny, high-pitched strings and, between workouts, instead of retiring to the basement for a hand of pinochle, the musicians chatted, had a pot of tea, and occasionally yelled some pal in the audience.

Stage center, a tallish galoot with a face full of red make-up was doing most of the strutting and prancing; a gent with a strip of white court plaster on the bridge of his nose was getting the laughs, and a chunky guy wearing a black-and-white striped mask was being kicked and chased all over the stage.

"What goes?" I asked the newspaperman during intermission.

"It's easy to follow," he said, "once you're familiar with a few simple symbols. In a drama, the character with the red face is the hero, the man with the striped mask the villain, and the one with the white patch on his nose is the clown."

"Wouldn't it be more interesting without labels?" I asked.

"Not to a Chinese," said the journalist. "He's more interested in types than individuals, and likes to have his mind free so he can concentrate on the story."

"Well, then," said Eleanor, "when they put on a mystery show, how do they keep the audience from guessing who murdered the man with all the money?"

"I don't remember ever seeing a mystery play in a Chinese theater," said our friend.

"How come the skimpier scenery?" I asked.

"Chinese audiences would resent a lot of scenery," said the newspaperman. "They prefer that you give them one ingredient and leave it to their imaginations to fill in the rest. And so, when a performer lifts his foot a little, everybody knows he's stepping through a door; when his foot goes up a few inches higher, it's obvious he's mounting a horse, and when he gallops around the stage, he's going on a long journey."

After the show, we stepped in for a drink on the top floor of the Broadway Mansions, the building on Soochow Creek occupied by foreign correspondents and their families. There, we were introduced to Harrison Forman, author of "Changing China" and all-around expert on matters Oriental and, to judge the conversation along, I began sounding off on the Chinese theatre and how strange it seemed to a fellow from Broadway.

"The stuff you've seen so far," said Forman, "is as old as the pagodas of Peking. To see something really new in entertainment, you ought to go to Shensi province, where the Communists are putting out a Living Newspaper every day."

"Tell me about it instead," I said. "I hear the bullets in Shensi don't care who they hit."

According to Forman, millions of uncultured peasants in China have never seen a newspaper or listened to a radio and so, several years ago, the Communist leadership decided that the best way to sell them on the party line was to mix Marx with a little mirth.

For openers, they presented a couple of simple sketches in which boy met tractor, girl lost capitalist tendencies, and boy and girl got that old-time, post-purge religion. However, these soap-boxish dramas only met with a so-so reception, and so one of the brighter of the brethren hit on the idea of using the Yang Ko dance to pep things up.

The Yang Ko, as The National Geographic has probably told you, is an old communal caper similar to the one-two-three-bump! of our conga, and is usually accompanied by a lot of lusty seven-to-the-bar chanting.

Well, the chanting part was a natural for propaganda purposes. New lyrics were substituted for old prose—bits of verse about inflation, evicted war lords, Chiang Kai-shek, and crop failures—and before they could say "Horace Greeley," the Leftos found themselves publishing a Daily Worker on legs. And during the war, those propaganda hoedowns were used to brief the populace on the daily global doings, from the standstill at Stalingrad to the mushroom over Hiroshima.

Forman told me he was up in Shensi on the day the Allies crossed the Channel and invaded Normandy, and that the following night he witnessed a three-dimensional tableau which explained the event to peasants who had never seen a B-29 or an L.S.T., not to mention an ocean. An clips of 30 men portrayed a battleship; a plank held up in the middle was the top deck on which Eisenhower stood; men whirling their arms were the air support, and a chorus of gents shouting, "Bank, bank!" on a nearby hill played the heavy artillery. And the finale, of course, was the usual conga line chanting a little something by Shostakovich.

The actor playing Eisenhower wore a big putty nose and, when I asked Forman why, he explained that the Chinese think all Americans have big schnozzes, just as we think all Chinese have eyes on the bias.

Today, from the Yellow Sea to Tannu Tuva, the Communists are using these Living Newspapers to put across their news and views. And even when they marched into Peking a while back, the first thousand soldiers to enter the city danced through the ancient gates in single file, chanting party-line poetry with seven beats and a bump to the bar.

Well, as Pravda told you last year, I'm no pal of Pal Joey, but nevertheless I've got to bust down and admit that these propaganda-packed shivarees are probably the neatest and most muscular switch in the hoary history of show business. I don't doubt that, judged by big-time standards, most of them are amateurish and dull as dusty rice—but, measured in social impact, they probably told more wallop than a hundred "South Pacific's."

Of course, I'd hate to see the Living Newspaper catch on in the United States. A columnist would be in a heck of a fix if every sentence he wrote had to end with a bump.

Pulls Son From Cistern

Cutler, Ill. (AP)—Sonny fell in the cistern but it was his dad who suffered. Three-year-old Shelby Slusher, chasing a cat on a nearby farm, plunged into a cistern, with eight feet of water in it. His sister, Mary Lou, 9, screamed, bringing their father, Lawrence Slusher, on the run. He couldn't see his son in the water. The father, 36, a Cutler minister-businessman, dived. He came up with Shelby. The farmer, George Reeves, pulled the boy out with a rope and put a ladder down for Slusher. The small boy came out of the mishap apparently unharmed. But his father required medical care for a bad cold, a sore throat and shock.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

This Game Hand Can Be Defeated

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

I met a chap the other day who plays a good game of gin rummy. But he is afraid to play bridge, because so many of the boys in his band are good bridge players that he could not afford to lose to them all. He won fame on the program called "Do You Want to Lead a Band." Now you know I am talking about Sammy Kaye.

We were both from Cleveland, O. Sammy formed a band at Ohio University, where he studied civil engineering. His first engagement was at Danceland in Cleveland. Sammy has a new radio show and does a lot of recording. Before long we will be seeing Sammy Kaye and his boys on television.

He presented today's hand to me, and said, "the boy's want to know the answer to this one."

We both agreed that the bidding was all right, but not the play, which was along this line: The opening lead of the queen of diamonds held, but dummy's ace won the second diamond trick. Two rounds of hearts were taken and a diamond was trumped. A small spade was led and when West played the five, declarer played the seven. East won with the eight spot. A spade was returned, which declarer won in dummy with the ace. At this point the ace of clubs was cashed. Then a small spade was trumped. A small club was led and East had to win with the king. Now no matter what he returned declarer was able to ruff in his own hand and discard the losing club in dummy.

Sammy said he thought the hand should be defeated and I agreed. If East, instead of returning a spade, had banged down the king of clubs he would not have been end-played. However, we both agreed that declarer had made a clever play when he cashed the ace of clubs, before trumping the third spade.

N.L.R.B. Members
Are Getting Earful
Taft-Hartley Fight

Washington, May 25 (AP)—After nearly a year's delay the five members of the National Labor Relations Board are rapidly getting an earful of the government's Taft-Hartley Act charges against the A.F.L. International Typographical Union.

But no one can say for sure today whether the board's decisions will come while the Taft-Hartley Act is still on the books in its present form. That depends on the board—and Congress.

Unfair labor practice charges were filed against the century-old union of printers in 1947 after Congress enacted the Taft-Hartley law. This law outlawed the closed shop—that is, conditions under which the employer can hire only members of a particular union.

Five major cases were tentatively ruled upon by N.L.R.B. examiners in 1948, and in all five cases the I.T.U.—the national body—was found guilty of insisting on closed shop conditions. All nine local unions involved in the case were held guilty of the same violation.

Now those five cases are being argued before the board in relatively quick succession.

Last month oral arguments were presented in the cases brought by the commercial print shops of Baltimore and by a newspaper on Long Island, the Nassau Review-Star.

Arguments Are Heard

Yesterday the board heard arguments in the nation-wide newspaper case brought by the American Newspaper Publishers Association and in the Chicago newspaper case.

Tomorrow, the fifth and last case will be argued, the case brought by the commercial print shops of six cities—Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Newark.

Late yesterday in the Chicago case, Elisha Hanson, who is counsel for the A.N.P.A., told the board:

"There is only one issue to be decided here. That is, how long this union is going to be able to openly defy this law, and strike against this law, and use us as guinea pigs in their defiance."

The union's lawyers, on the other hand, asked the board to dismiss all charges on the ground that the union is trying only to protect itself from breaking up, and has done nothing illegal.

The I.T.U. president himself, Woodruff Randolph, came forward unexpectedly, closed the union's argument with a charge that the attorneys for the newspaper publishers and the government had misrepresented the facts.

Randolph Resents Angles

Randolph said: "I resent exceedingly the continuous misrepresentation heard here today."

Allen Sinsheimer, Jr., reviewed the facts of both cases on behalf of N.L.R.B. General Counsel Robert N. Denham, who issued formal complaints against the I.T.U. in all five cases after the employers had filed the original charges.

The union's lawyers accused the Denham office of "brutal harassment" of the I.T.U. throughout the long months of litigation, and at one point Sinsheimer demanded that this line of argument be stricken from the record. The board took the demand under advisement.

The arguments came on a day when the Chicago newspaper strike was exactly a year and a half old. Union printers walked out of five newspapers in Chicago on Nov. 24, 1947. The union says it is a strike for higher wages. Hanson yesterday repeated the publishers' contention that it is a strike against the Taft-Hartley Act.

The trial examiners' report in the five major cases were issued in April, June, and August of last year.

Unions Found Guilty

Besides the closed shop findings, the examiners found all nine local unions guilty of refusing to bargain in good faith. These locals are: Two in Detroit, and one each in Chicago, Baltimore, Nassau county, St. Louis, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, and Newark.

The national union also was found to have refused to bargain in the Chicago newspaper case. But in three other cases the examiners recommended dismissal of this charge with respect to the I.T.U. itself, while holding that local unions refused to bargain.

The examiners recommended dismissal of some charges against the I.T.U., and in the two cases argued yesterday, the lawyers for groups of publishers asked the board to find violations in those instances too.

The N.L.R.B., whenever it finds that an unfair labor practice is being committed, has the power to issue a cease-and-desist order, enforced by the federal courts if necessary.

Suit Dismissed

Los Angeles, May 25 (AP)—A paternity suit against Wallace Beery has been dismissed on the grounds it couldn't survive the actor, who died April 15. So ruled Superior Judge William B. McKesson yesterday. The action had been brought by Mrs. Gloria Schumm, 32-year-old screen bit player, who claimed Beery fathered her son, Johan, aged 15 months.

Boy's Body Found
In Long Island Sound

Greenwich, Conn., May 25 (AP)—The badly decomposed body of a boy found floating near Great Captain's Island in Long Island Sound yesterday was identified by Greenwich police as that of Michael (Mike) Gasko, 14, of (125 Yonkers avenue) Yonkers, N. Y. He was one of six 'teen age youths who were reported missing in Long Island Sound since April 2.

Police said they established identity through a key ring bearing the youth's name which was found in the clothing.

The body was discovered first by Engineer Second Class Herbert Glenner, a member of the U. S. Coast Guard staff manning a lighthouse on the island. Glenner, on his way back to the island from Port Chester, N. Y., in a launch, returned to Greenwich harbor where he alerted the police. His launch accompanied the police launch when it went out to bring in the body.

Osterhoudt Is Paroled, Strong Awaits Sentence

Henry Osterhoudt of the town of Wawarsing was sentenced to a year in the county jail this morning by County Judge M. Cashin following a plea of guilty to assault, second degree. The jail sentence was suspended and Osterhoudt placed on probation. Bail was exonerated.

It was alleged that the assault took place several months ago upon a woman who had gone for a ride in the defendant's car. Thomas Plunket appeared for Osterhoudt.

Raymond Lee Strong, East Kingston, entered a plea of guilty to assault, second degree, one of two assault charges which were lodged against him by grand jury indictment following an alleged attack on a girl under 18 years of age. Robert Ortolano appeared for defendant. Strong will be sentenced on June 1 at 10 o'clock. Bail was continued until that time.

County Court adjourned until 10 o'clock Thursday when a civil matter will be ready for trial.

Local Death Record

Catskill, May 25.—Miss Julia Comfort, 86, a native of this village died at her home in Catskill, Monday after a long illness. Burial will be made in Catskill Village cemetery, Thursday afternoon. Years ago, Miss Comfort conducted a business school in Albany.

The funeral of Lieutenant John C. Robertson was held Tuesday from the home, 133 Clifton avenue, at 9:30 a. m. and at St. Mary's Church 10 a. m. where a solemn high Mass was offered by the Right Rev. Monsignor MacLellan, D.D., V.F., with the Rev. John A. Flaherty acting as deacon, and the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly as sub-deacon. The Right Rev. Monsignor Stephen P. Connelly, P.R., was within the sanctuary. The responses to the Mass were sung by the children's choir of the church. The soloist, William K. Entwistle, sang at the offertory. The choir sang the National Anthem. The church was filled with sorrowing relatives and friends who came to pay their last tribute to a hero by assisting at his requiem. During the time the body of the veteran rested in the residence, scores of friends called to offer their condolence and sympathy to the bereaved family. Monsignor Drury and Father Flaherty visited the home and offered the prayers for the dead. Monday evening St. Mary's Holy Name Society, led by John J. Grady, president, assembled at the home, and assisted Father Farrelly in the recitation of the Rosary. The casket was surrounded by beautiful flowers, and spiritual high notes in the home of the deceased were held. The veteran's body arrived in Kingston Monday afternoon by motor vehicle from the Brooklyn Army Base and was escorted to the Kingston Veterans' Association and the local police. Full military honors were accorded by the K.V.A. The color guard consisted of Clarence Hyde, Victor Osborn, Thomas Bohay and Victor Zimer. Three volleys were fired over the grave by a firing squad composed of John R. Mayone, Donald G. Moore, John Tyler, William J. Bilyou, Lester Barth and Abe Slinger. Taps were sounded by John R. Mayone. The flag which draped the casket was presented to the bereaved family by First Lieutenant Howard Hutter, the government escort who accompanied the body here. Burial accompanied the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery where the final absolution and blessings were given by Monsignor Drury with Fathers Flaherty and Farrelly assisting.

Peace Talks Resume
Detroit, May 25 (AP)—Negotiations in the Ford strike headed back into the "speed-up" walkout by the C.I.O.'s United Workers' Management and the union arranged to meet to discuss the U.A.W.'s arbitration offer as related to one phase of the dispute idling 105,000 Ford workers. An agreement, the union said, could lead to an early end of the strike with settlement on "minor issues."

Matthews Sworn In
Washington, May 25 (AP)—Francis P. Matthews of Omaha, Neb., was sworn in today as secretary of the navy. In the same ceremony, Gordon Gray of Winston-Salem, N. C., took the oath as undersecretary of the army and Dan A. Kimball of Los Angeles, Calif., was inducted as undersecretary of the navy. Judge Edward A. Tamm of the U. S. District Court administered the oath to Matthews, lawyer and leader of Catholic lay activities.

Congress members call adequate precautions to protect atomic security.

"I hope that Mr. Lillenthal is removed from his present position because I think he is unworthy of the place," McCarran told a reporter.

He said he voted against confirmation of Lillenthal in April, 1947 and added:

"I am not at all surprised at the outcome of these investigations because Mr. Lillenthal's actions and conduct when head of the Tennessee Valley Authority indicated what his attitude was."

He referred to the investigations now being conducted by the Joint Congressional Committee and the Senate appropriations subcommittee on independent offices into the fellowship awards and a small quantity of uranium-235 still missing from a Chicago atomic laboratory.

Highland Girl Injured When Struck by Auto

Patricia Fischer, 7, of Vineyard avenue, Highland, was injured Tuesday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock when struck by a car a mile west of Highland on Route 55. The car was operated by Angelo Baglieri of 1519 79th street, Brooklyn.

Taken to her home she was treated by Carl Meekins of Highland for a laceration of the upper lip, contusions of the nose and injury to her back and right leg. The injuries were not considered serious.

An investigation was made by State Police from Highland who reported the car was traveling in front of the victim when it struck her. A group of children, started across the road and was struck by the car. There was no arrest.

Last Honors Paid

Mrs. Forrestal and the two sons, Michael and Peter, preferred to pay their farewell to the private graveside ceremonies. No arrangements were made for their appearance at the amphitheatre tribute.

The place of the grave was on the downward slope of a small knoll in a grove. A scant half mile distant, but hidden by the trees, was the Pentagon where Forrestal worked, before, exhausted, he resigned two months ago.

There the "impossible job" of trying to make service unification operate under an inadequate law "killed Jim Forrestal," said Senator Malone (R-Nev.) in a Senate speech yesterday. Another member, Senator Morse (R-Ore.) proposed that the unification law be perfected as a "great monument" to the memory of Forrestal.

Forrestal, 57 years old, took his life by leaping from the 16th floor of the Naval Hospital at nearby Bethesda, Md., where he had been a patient for seven weeks.

The windows of his own room were heavily screened (he used a blind) and a continuous watch had been provided. But as his condition appeared to grow better and because psychiatrists believed the "calculated risk" of more freedom was good therapy, the vigilance was relaxed. Forrestal chose that time to walk from his own room and jump from the window. A navy board of inquiry began an investigation Monday.

Yesterday, Mrs. Forrestal sought to remove any blame from the hospital staff and authorities. She wrote Navy Secretary John L. Sullivan that:

"Jim Forrestal would be hurt indeed if he felt there was any criticism of the Naval Medical Center for its care of him, particularly as there is no foundation for criticism."

It would have been impossible for him to have recovered with the knowledge that he was under constant watch, and I am sure that the risk in gradually dispensing with the watch was essential."

Head for Bund
Straight for the billion dollar Bund built along the Whangpoo banks they headed. There they ran into trouble. The bridges were blocked by machine guns.

Riflemen in the Broadway Mansions, tall apartment building across Soochow Creek from the heart of Shanghai, kept the Reds low.

Nationalist soldiers barricaded at the Garden Bridge, Chapoo Bridge and the Szechwan Bridge held up other red bands. The bridges lead to the only arteries to Shanghai's north.

The Communists deployed into abandoned Nationalist fortifications on the Bund. They were forced from their advance positions by rifle grenades and machine guns from the Garden Bridge Park and from the third floor of Broadway Mansions.

When it became apparent the Communists could not take the exposed targets without considerable loss of life, they set up a harassing fire. Bullets rattled in up and down the famous Bund; front of the American consulate; housing the British consulate; and across from the Russian consulate.

Thousands watched the fighting from high buildings on the Bund.

Visiting Chicago with his mother, Mrs. Edna Williams, Jack decided he didn't like the big city, packed up and headed back to his grandmother's farm. A stranger saw him on a street car five hours later and took him to police. Now Jack's back with his mother—and still in the big city.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 25 (AP)—The stock market hovered just above the lowest level of the year today as prices went into another gentle decline.

Losses were fractional for the most part, some as much as a point or so, but they were enough to put many key stocks at their lows for 1949 or longer. A good handful of shares managed small gains.

The decline was the seventh out of the past eight trading days.

The volume of business was a trifle above recent sessions but nevertheless nothing to get worked up about.

Selling pressure never reached the insistent stage. Demand, on the other hand, could not be stimulated except by price concessions.

Wall Street again blamed investment and speculative apathy for this latest setback. Interest in stocks, it was pointed out, has been virtually dormant for months and recently.

The day's news—which included the full of Shanghai—had little effect on market strategy.

New 1949 lows were established by, among others, U. S. Steel old and new, Bethlehem Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Armco Steel, United Fruit, Westinghouse Electric, and U. S. Gypsum.

Others lower were Firestone, Sears Roebuck, Schenley, American Telephone, Consolidated Natural Gas, Kennecott Copper, Phelps Dodge, Dow Chemical, Allied Chemical, J. C. Penney, Philip Morris, Pullman, Nickel Plate, Amerasia Petroleum Gulf Oil, and Phillips Petroleum.

Harvell Attorney

Harvell "shouldn't be turned loose on the street; I don't want him loose."

"I didn't know him or his family." Prior added, "but he's a boy, an American boy. He's entitled to justice and he's not guilty of first degree murder." Prior was assigned to the case by the court.

Harvell, of Hudson, and Lawrence W. Allgood, 20, of Union, N. J., are accused of the robbery-slaying last Nov. 21 of Martin M. Kitzel, 48, operator of a dry cleaning establishment.

Summations were expected to be completed today and the case given to the jury by nightfall.

John A. Scully, court-appointed attorney for Allgood, was to sum up this afternoon.

Their conviction would mean mandatory death sentences unless the jury recommended leniency. Mercy may be recommended when a victim is slain during commission of another felony. The court may accept or reject the recommendation.

Testimony was completed yesterday after the defense had presented three witnesses who testified Harvell and Allgood were drunk the night Kitzel was shot.

Justice Isadore Bookstein of State Supreme Court denied defense motions for dismissal.

Daniel H. Prior, one of the defense attorneys, claimed the prosecution had failed to prove its case. He also argued that Harvell and Allgood had been ordered illegally to help search for the gun allegedly used in the slaying.

State Rejects . . .

funds are intended for those families who cannot afford to buy, hence the option to purchase would have no place.

The report failed to consider the fact that maintenance and operating costs are substantially more for multiple dwellings than for three family structures. This is an extremely important consideration in a plan which has its basic purpose the providing of rents sufficiently low as to be within the means of low income families.

The provisions of the Constitution require the clearance of substandard and unsanitary areas, which would be a great boon to Kingston since it is quite evident that there, as in other cities, your existing substandard sections will not be cleared without public aid. It is evident that Kingston has not the funds with which to clear them, and it would be unfortunate for all your citizens if these areas were permitted to continue indefinitely, spreading their deteriorating influences throughout even a larger area.

If the type of structure suggested in the plan can be built more economically as is claimed in the report and for the same rentals that would be charged in a state-aided low rent project, it is quite obvious that private builders would have undertaken their construction in substantial numbers in the city of Kingston long before this.

With respect to the adequacy of school facilities, reference is suggested to our letter of May 12 to Mrs. Donald D. Davis, a copy of which was sent to the mayor and the authority as well as the Board of Education and the superintendent of schools.

There will be no displacement of families from the sites available for them elsewhere. This has always been the policy of this division and there will be no change of policy for the city of Kingston in this respect.

Commissioner Stichman has not withdrawn his approval of the application and he awaits with interest the decision of the Common Council of the city of Kingston with respect to providing the needed housing for your citizens.

Very truly yours,
HERMAN COHEN
COUNSEL

Letter to Stichman

Hon. Herman T. Stichman,
Commissioner of Housing,
270 Broadway,
New York 7, N. Y.

Re: Kingston Housing Authority, N.Y.S.—45.

Dear Commissioner:

I enclose herein a copy of the minority report of the Finance Ways and Means Committee of the Common Council of the city of Kingston. This report was adopted by said Common Council at a special meeting held May 10, 1949.

It is requested that you give this report your consideration and favor us with your comments as to the matters contained therein.

It is the understanding of the Kingston Housing Authority that the so-called "plan" set forth in the state program, but if we are mistaken, do not hesitate to correct us and give the proposal your fullest consideration.

In closing, may I respectfully request that you do not consider the adoption of this minority report as a complete rejection of the terms and conditions contained in the "Application for Financial Assistance for a Public Housing Project" made by the Kingston Housing Authority dated March 11, 1949, as amended April 4, 1949, and that you do not withdraw, at this time, your approval of said application.

Very truly yours,
(Signed)
ARTHUR A. DAVIS, JR.,
Chairman.

Letter to Council

Kingston Housing Authority
CITY HALL
Kingston, New York
May 18, 1949

The Honorable, The Common Council of the City of Kingston
City Hall
Kingston, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

Following your meeting of May 10th, the Kingston Housing Authority conferred with representatives of the Commissioner of Housing by telephone and also address a letter to the Commissioner of Housing, dated May 13, 1949, a copy of which is attached hereto, asking that the plan set forth in the minority report adopted by the Common Council be given consideration, although it was stated that it was the understanding of the Kingston Housing Authority that said plan was not possible under the state program.

The reply from the Division of Housing is annexed hereto. It is very clear in anyone's mind that no doubt in anyone's mind that the State Division of Housing cannot and will not consent to the proposed plan for building many small homes throughout the community.

We wish to point out also that implicit in the opposition expressed in the resolution of the Common Council to the demolition of any substandard structures in the City of Kingston is a criticism of existing state law which ties up construction of new with demolition of some substandard structures. We must take the law as we find it and must try to operate under it. The sections of the State Constitution with respect to housing adopted in 1938 requires demolition. Further, the plan for relating to housing adopted during the Lehman administration in 1939 require demolition of old as a condition to the building of new by the state.

The resolution of the Common Council also asked for the utilization of properties now owned by the city, rather than to acquire lands as a site. Investigation discloses about a dozen parcels owned by the city, but few are suitable for building sites, even if it were permitted by the state. Parcels acquired by the city because of non-payment of taxes do not make good building sites.

In the aforementioned letter from your local housing authority to Commissioner Stichman it was stated that the action of the Common Council of the city of Kingston in adopting the minority report not be considered as a complete rejection of the terms of the "Application for Financial Assistance for a Public Housing Project" and further requested the commissioner not to withdraw approval of said application. His reply indicates that he has complied with our request.

The time element involved is a serious matter for your consideration. Cities throughout the entire state are clamoring for state financed projects such as we have secured for Kingston. Before the year 1949 ends it is expected that the entire amount of present funds for projects such as this will have been exhausted and even now the entire unexpended balance of said funds may have been earmarked or allocated. The Kingston Housing Authority has been successful in having $1,200,000 allocated for a project in Kingston. If the "Application" is rejected by your honorable body and the funds now allocated for our use go back into the status of unallocated funds it is probable that it would be immediately located to some other city which is now on the waiting list for state funds.

There has been some comment about the estimated cost per room. There are some considerations which we wish to point out to you:

1. There will be 420 rooms available for tenancy, plus additional rooms for management's use, a garage, community shower rooms and perhaps a few other rooms depending upon what the architect believes necessary;

2. $80,000 will be set aside for acquisition of land in downtown area;

3. Contracts will be let by public bids and the lowest responsible bidders will be awarded the contracts (the work itself will undoubtedly be done by local masons, carpenters, electricians, etc.);

Y.M.C.A. Elects New Officers at Annual Meeting

Clarence Rowland was reelected president of the Y.M.C.A. at the annual meeting Tuesday night. A. B. Shufeldt was elected vice president; C. C. Rose, secretary, and Emil Boessneck, treasurer.

C. A. Baltz was chairman of the nominating committee which proposed the following directors to serve for three years: C. S. Rowland, Herman Schwenk, Stanley Matthews, Lloyd LeFevre, James Rowe, Dwight McEntee, Sr., and George N. Shivery. Shivery will be serving for his first term on the board.

Ernest LeFevre and William C. Kingman were reelected to serve for three years as trustees.

Brief reports were given on the general work of the past year by Secretary Burt Tandy; physical work, L. J. Schuler; boys' work, Clarence Correll; bowling program, Theodore Young; and finances by Emil Boessneck and Lloyd LeFevre.

Dwight McEntee reported that up to the opening meeting of the board $125 additional had been added to the grand total making it $18,125.20 with more to come. McEntee was thanked by President Rowland and the directors for his good work during the drive.

Rowland also commented on the good standing of the "Y" holds in Kingston today because of its various youth programs. He stated that it was a pleasure to serve with such a group of directors as long as they continued extending such "Y" services.

Director Baltz acted as chairman of the meeting during the elections.

Directors present were Clarence Rowland, A. B. Shufeldt, C. C. Rose, E. G. Boessneck, Clarence Dumlin, C. A. Baltz, Herman Schwenk, C. E. Wonderly, Lloyd LeFevre, A. Ted Young, William O'Reilly, Dwight McEntee, Sr., George H. DeKay, A. H. Harder and Elmer Rylander.

The membership was represented by Harry C. Stevens and Howard Elliott.

The next meeting of the board will be June 21 at which time the new budget will be presented.

Backseat Driving

Q. Is "backseat driving" really in bad taste?

A. The backseat driver has been much maligned and often rightly so. The official passenger need trouble in traffic by making a driver "jittery." This in turn upsets his driving judgment. There is, however, something to be said for any passenger who is obviously frightened. In fact, no sensible driver would resent being asked to drive more carefully.

Courtesies in a Car

Q. Should a gentleman who is driving light the cigarette of a lady beside him?

A. The answer is no! Safety is more important than chivalry. The driver of a car is not expected to light a passenger's cigarette, turn the radio, crank windows (other than his own) or do anything else that would momentarily divert his attention from the road, while trying to be helpful.

Jury Declares Will Of F. W. Barlow Invalid

New York, May 25 (AP)—A jury has declared invalid the will of the late Frederick W. Barlow, Manhattan cafe owner, under which he split his $300,000 estate between his widow, Edna, and two other women.

Legal action was brought by the widow, who claimed that when her husband made the will he had been under "undue influence" of Irene Howland, a dark-eyed blonde.

The will left Mrs. Barlow 50 per cent of the estate, Miss Howland, who was described as a "faithful friend," 40 per cent; Mrs. Louise Joyce Wong, a nurse, 10 per cent.

Barlow, 73, died April 29, 1948. After the jury returned its verdict last night, Robert R. Kaufman, attorney for Miss Howland, said he would appeal the case.

During the trial, Mrs. Wong testified that Barlow had told her a corpse had been buried in the basement of his restaurant at 107 West 44th street. Detectives searched, but found no body.

Franklin P. Ferguson, attorney who drew the will, quoted Barlow as saying he didn't want his wife to "get anything," but that he left her 50 per cent to meet legal requirements.

An earlier will, not involved in the suit, divided the estate between Mrs. Barlow and Mrs. Nettie Buttram, Barlow's sister.

Son of a former headhunter on the island of Vella Lavella in the Solomon Islands, Salau is here to renew his acquaintance with U. S. servicemen he met during the war.

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

In appreciation for sending me the very interesting "Alexandria Gazette" covering their 200 year anniversary, I am sending G.W.G.

(a former resident of Ulster county, who was connected with the Ashokan Dam during construction) booklets of Ashokan Dam, Catskill Mts. and souvenir booklet of "Historic Kingston." I am sure G.W.G. will feel perfectly at home when looking through old Kingston booklet. For instance there is a picture of the old Eagle Hotel, now an empty parking lot. Next to it is Gold's Reliable Shop long ago moved to Wall street. Then next to the Suyvesant Hotel is Hoffman's tobacco store. The Kingston Hospital is covered with vines and a tiered lawn which would put it before the fire on Feb. 20th, 1926. Also is entitled "Kingston City Hospital" in the picture. The Y.M.C.A. building is shown from the Pine Grove avenue side, with large show-cards of the old auditorium silent picture days in that building. The Kingston Point Lagoon shows the Pavilion, which burned on March 30, 1924, which burned on March 30, 1924, which burned on March 30, 1924.

The next meeting of the board will be June 21 at which time the new budget will be presented.

Heads Realtors

Catskill, May 25—Raymond L. Harring was elected president of a new organization to be known as the Greene County Board of Realtors at an enthusiastic meeting of real estate agents this week. Its purpose is to unite, protect and advance the interests of the real estate profession; to establish a high standard of ethics and a uniform schedule of rates, to cultivate and maintain fair dealings and advance civic developments of the community. Membership will be divided into three classes, active, salesman and associate.

Need 100,000 Workers

Albany, N. Y., May 25 (AP)—New York will need an extra 100,000 farm and food processing plant workers at harvest time again this year. The interdepartmental Committee on Farm and Food Processing Labor made the estimate yesterday for the harvest season peak in August and September. The same number of extra workers were employed during the 1948 harvesting season. Nearly one-fourth of the seasonal workers last year were migrants from the southern states, Pennsylvania, Canada, Puerto Rico, Jamaica and the Bahamas.

Thorne Will Head Property Surveys

Albany, N. Y., May 25 (AP)—J. Russell Thorne of Binghamton will supervise local property surveys and appraisals for the State Board of Equalization and Assessment.

He was appointed by State Comptroller Frank C. Moore yesterday to the newly created board post of director of equalization. The job pays $12,000 a year. The board was created by the 1949 Legislature to revise equalization rates throughout the state. Equalization rates, fixed annually by the state, are based on the ratio between a locality's assessed valuation and its actual property value.

Thorne is a former president of the State Association of Real Estate Boards.

About 40 employees of the State Tax Department's local assessment bureau have been assigned to the new board as a nucleus for a field staff.

Marco Polo refers, in his great book on his travels in the Far East, to a great southern continent, believed to have been Australia.

English Chic

By EPSIE KINARD, NEA Fashion Editor

New York (NEA)—The 1949 "Maid of Cotton" is back from her gypsy trek to England with her all-cotton wardrobe enriched by six British-designed dresses.

The international wardrobe of Sue Howell, King Cotton's good-will ambassador, now boasts the pick of the cotton crop of the U. S., France and England. As guest of the Cotton Board of England, the "Maid" modeled her cotton duds and posed for photographers against historic London backgrounds.

Peanuts are variously known as earthnuts, monkeynuts, oilnuts, groundnuts, goobers and pindas.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

IT WOULD BE CRUEL

An unusually interesting question is presented in this letter: "What is your opinion about our local practice of having the high school graduates file into the auditorium and receive their diplomas according to their rank in classes? Don't you agree with some of us who feel that this is lacking in consideration for the feelings of parents of graduates in the lower bracket? There are numerous reasons why some don't have the best grades. To have them file in alphabetically or according to height would, it seems to me, save a great deal of embarrassment."

I agree with you that it would be very humiliating to the parents of those at the bitter end (to say nothing of the bitter-ends themselves) to have them walk in the order of their grades. It certainly seems to me much better in every way, to let them follow each other in alphabetical order. After all, the top honor students will be given plenty of approving notice when they are called up to receive their prizes.

Permanently Absent Club Member

Dear Mrs. Post: We have a bridge club of three tables. One of the members has moved out of town and yet she does nothing about resigning and each time the hostess of the day has to invite a substitute. Don't you think the old member should of her own accord resign and not give us the unpleasant task of asking her to? As long as she remains a member we can't ask a regular.

Problem Concerning Parents
Dear Mrs. Post: How should the newspaper announcements of my engagement be worded in the case of this family situation? My parents are not living, but I am living with my step-father who has been a real Dad to me. How can the wording of the announcement recognize everyone?

Answer: "Mr. John Jones announces the engagement of his stepdaughter, Miss Mary Smith, daughter of the late Mrs. John Jones and the late Mr. Henry Smith," etc.

How to announce the engagement publicly is described in Mrs. Post's leaflet, E-1. To obtain a copy, send 5 cents in coin and a stamped self-addressed envelope to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station C, New York 19, N. Y. Easy Milking
Conway, Ark., (AP)—If milking bossy gives you a back ache, Farmer H. O. Proctor figures he can save you a lot of stoops. It's just a matter of putting the cow on a higher level than the milker, says Proctor, who operates a farm near here. Proctor used to wear himself out stooping over to milk his 20 cows each day. He thought up the idea of building a ramp around his barn high enough so that when he has to milk all he does is reach out and attach electrical squeezers. Everything is set with no back bending.

Presbyterian Cites Antagonism of Christian Groups

Buffalo, N. Y., May 25 (AP)—A Presbyterian minister says "it is a fact that there is a definite hostility and antagonism, and even overt persecution, between major segments of the Christian church."

Dr. John Sutherland Bonnell, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York city, spoke last night at the 161st General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in U.S.A.

"Communists in all parts of the world find it possible to work together for a common goal, yet Christians have failed to achieve such a basis of operation," he said.

Dr. Bonnell said "there is little prospect that the close of the 20th century will see anything approaching organic unity between the forces of Roman Catholicism and Protestantism, but we dare hope and pray that the second half of the 20th century will witness a far more Christian spirit manifested in their relations with each other."

He said there is a "desperate need for a conference on the highest possible level between Protestant and Roman Catholic leadership to work out a modus vivendi and a settled policy on the subject of religious freedom can be established."

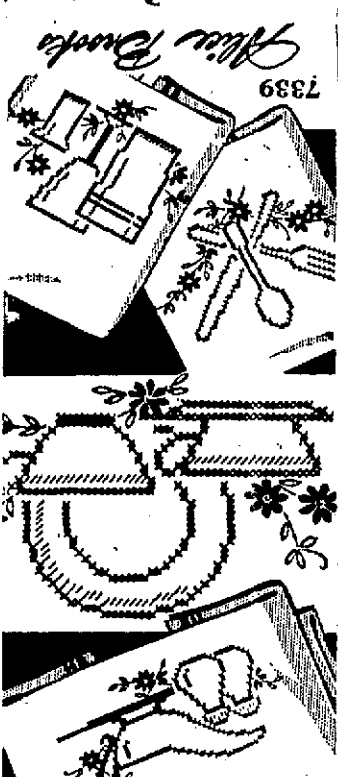

(A modus vivendi is a temporary arrangement pending a permanent settlement.)

The general assembly approved an overture already passed by the Presbyteries which defined a procedure for formal installation of commissioned church workers, most of whom are directors of Christian education.

The assembly also approved the first annual report of the Department of Ministerial Relations. It recommended appointment of Howard L. Hamilton of Columbus, Ohio, as executive secretary of the department and provided for establishment of temporary headquarters for the department in Columbus.

The assembly, which opened last Thursday, ended today.

Health Association Dinner Held

average annual death rate was under 30 per 100,000 in 44 of the 57 counties and was over 40 per 100,000 in only three counties.

Directors of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association were unanimously elected as nominated by a committee appointed for that purpose. New directors, elected for a three year term, included Mrs. N. Jansen Fowler of Kingston, to replace Dr. John A. Kingsbury of Shady, who resigned, and Dr. Edward P. Shea of Kingston, chairman of the mental health committee, elected as an additional member.

Former directors re-elected for another three year term were Dr. H. L. Bibby, Kingston; Mrs. Marion Bullard, Woodstock; H. Van Wyck Darrow, Kingston; Mrs. Dorothy Moerner, Ellenville; the Rev. Herbert Killander, Ulster Park; Arthur J. Laidlaw, Kingston; Roger H. Loughran, Hurley; Augustus P. Modjeski, Saugerties; Dr. M. Elizabeth Moore, Kingston; Katherine M. Murky, Kingston; Lester J. Roosa, Stone Ridge, and Philip T. Schantz, Highland.

Officers of the association were re-elected by the board of directors following the annual meeting. They are Harry S. Ensign, president; Sidney K. Clapp and Edmund Rochford, vice-presidents; Alfred D. Ronder, treasurer, and Katherine M. Murky, secretary.

President Ensign, during the meeting honored Charles Snyder of Kingston, a member of the board of directors since 1926, with the presentation of the double barred cross service pin. Snyder, a former treasurer of the association, has rendered continuous service to the organization longer than any present member, Ensign said. He added the thanks of the association for Mrs. Snyder for her support and encouragement in this work.

A brief account of the history of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association was given by Miss Katherine M. Murky, executive secretary.

On May 24, 1909, a group of Ulster county citizens organized the committee on prevention of tuberculosis, under the leadership of Joseph M. Fowler, she said. In 1910 the first county tuberculosis hospital in the state opened on Clinton avenue in Kingston and the first tuberculosis nurse in Ulster county was employed.

A consultation chest clinic was established in Ulster county in 1913. In 1919 the intensive campaign for a new county tuberculosis hospital was started, resulting in the opening of the Golden Hill Hospital in 1931, she said.

Camp Happyland, children's summer camp, was opened by the association in 1926. The county committee became the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association in 1942. The first mass chest X-ray survey was carried on in 1943. In 1948, there were 26,234 persons X-rayed during the X-ray surveys. The findings were 116 with active tuberculosis, 108 suspicious and 358 other chest conditions. Latest addition to the work of the association came this year with the formation of a sub-committee on mental health. These were the high spots in the association's history related by Miss Murky.

Dr. George James, who will retire July 15, as county health commissioner, lauded the association and the citizens of Ulster county for their "grand cooperation" with health officials. "We may be justly proud in Ulster county that we've all learned to work together," he said.

Philip T. Schantz, Highland, was chairman of the committee on arrangements.

A resolution urging support of an amendment to the state constitution which would permit New York city to borrow $150,000,000 for rehabilitation and expansion of its hospitals was adopted without opposition by members of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association at their annual meeting Tuesday night.

In offering the resolution, Dr. Henry Lambert Bibby pointed out that the amendment will be placed before the voters of the entire state at the general election on November 8. Such approval is necessary to authorize the city of New York to exceed its debt limit to that amount, "but the expense involved will be met solely by the taxpayers of New York city," he said.

Dr. Bibby also pointed out that because of the lack of adequate tuberculosis sanatoria in New York city, many city residents are coming to Ulster county for treatment, using our facilities. The proposed amendment specifically includes tuberculosis hospitals among the facilities to be expanded, he said.

Minimum Controls Fight Shapes Up Over Jersey Milk

Trenton, N. J., May 25 (AP)—A battle for the return of minimum retail milk price controls in New Jersey shaped up at the state capital today in the wake of a retail price drop.

A dealers' organization and an A.F.L. milk drivers labor union have called on Governor Driscoll for immediate action in what they term a "price war." They want the controls back. Controls were lifted last January.

Another labor group—the State C.I.O. Council—urged Driscoll not to reinstate retail price minimums. The governor should "permit free enterprise to operate in the milk industry without socialistic controls," the council said.

The situation was touched off Monday when milk prices in northern New Jersey suddenly slipped three cents a quart.

The New Jersey Milk Industry Association, which says its members handle 85 per cent of milk sold in the state, today said in a statement, "the milk industry and consumers in New Jersey are faced with the same economic conditions as they were in 1933, and for the same reason—lack of full control."

Thus far, the price cut is confined to the metropolitan area from north Jersey down to Middlesex county. But Secretary of Agriculture Willard H. Allen said yesterday the reduction "seems to be spreading."

Driscoll conferred with top aides yesterday, but issued no statement on the situation.

Some milk experts explained the price cut by out-of-state milk surpluses. These surpluses are imported by dealers at lower prices than those of New Jersey milk producers, they said.

Two Hit, Run Cases

Two autos were damaged last night in what police described as "hit-and-run" accidents. A report at 9:36 p. m. said that a car or truck had hit an auto parked in front of 155 Washington avenue, and Dorris Dabney, 47 South Pine street, reported at 10:55 p. m. that a sedan left parked near 20 Cedar street was struck and damaged. A later report on the Dabney car, indicated that the driver of the other auto involved had been identified.

EAT WELL for Less

MACARONI AND FRANKS BLEND WELL

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Macaroni and frankfurter combinations make thrifty dishes easy to eat and rich in food value. They are easy to prepare and almost a meal in themselves, and are therefore especially welcome during the hot months. Macaroni Frankfurter Bake is a tasty casserole dish.

Macaroni Frankfurter Bake (4-6 servings)
Three teaspoons salt, 3 quarts boiling water, 8 ounces elbow macaroni, 6 frankfurters, 1 cup diced American cheese, 2 tablespoons scraped onion, 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley, one 8-ounce can tomato sauce, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1/2 teaspoon salt, dash pepper.

Add 3 teaspoons salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Cook frankfurters in boiling water 5 minutes. Drain thoroughly.

Mix together macaroni, cheese, onion, parsley, tomato sauce, milk, Worcestershire sauce, 2 teaspoon salt and pepper. Place in greased shallow baking dish (about 3 1/2 quarts). Arrange frankfurters on top, pressing them gently into macaroni mixture. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 25 to 30 minutes.

Hot Macaroni Salad (Serves 4-6)
Four and one-half teaspoons

salt, 3 quarts boiling water, 8 ounces elbow macaroni, 1/2 cup chopped green pepper, 1/2 cup chopped onion, 6 frankfurters, sliced, 1 tablespoon butter or fortified margarine, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 cup French dressing, 1/2 cup sweet pickle relish.

Add 3 teaspoons salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain; dot with butter or fortified margarine if desired. Sauté green pepper, onion and frankfurters in butter, or margarine until vegetables are tender and frankfurters are browned.

Add remaining 1/2 teaspoon salt, pepper, French dressing and sweet pickle relish. Simmer to blend flavors, about five minutes. Combine with hot macaroni and serve at once, or keep hot in oven.

TOMORROW'S MENU
BREAKFAST: Canned grapefruit and pineapple juice, ready-to-eat cereal, fruited coffee cake, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

Saugerties High Southpaw Checks Kingston High With One Hit, 4-2

B. Scheffel's Homer Lone Safety Off Ralph Giammarino

Saugerties High unveiled a worthy successor to Mort Freilich yesterday, a young, strong-armed southpaw who throttled Kingston High with one hit and struck out 13 batters as the Sawyers romped to a 4-2 decision on the village diamond.

The name is Ralph Giammarino his stuff was as hard to solve as the pronunciation of his name.

Kingston's lone safety was a tremendous homer by Bud Scheffel with his brother, Ronnie, on base as the result of a walk in the first inning. It was a solid smash that soared over the centerfielder's head.

Thereafter Giammarino was in complete command and Kingston's only offensive gesture were a trio of walks. His mates gave him flawless support in the field.

Maroon Collapses
Leading 2-0, the Maroons promptly proceeded to hand the Sawyers four runs in the bottom half of the first when Ronnie Scheffel booted a grounder for a two base error and Mike Rienzo fumbled a double play ball. Bert Kuhn, the diminutive right hander, was almost as effective as Giammarino after the first inning, yielding only two scattered hits as the two young worthies hung a row of horseshells on each other. Kuhn did not issue a single pass.

Second Win
Giammarino is a senior and his win yesterday was the second of the season. Saugerties has played only four games.

Miller, first baseman, and "Bo" Schaffer, catcher, each had two hits for the winners.

Kingston meets undefeated Port Jervis High in a DUSO game Friday afternoon at municipal stadium. The Red and Black have reeled off seven straight victories, several of them by overwhelming margins. Henry Levy or Ted Schwamb will pitch for Kingston.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

By The Associated Press

By JOE REICHLER

Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson, in the midst of the greatest batting spree of his career, is taking the west by storm.

Not since the days of Lefty O'Doul and Babe Herman have fans of St. Louis, Cincinnati, Chicago and Pittsburgh seen anything like this come out of Flatbush.

The Dodgers' star second baseman has literally been tearing the cover off the ball since the Brooks left Boston for the hinterlands a week ago last Sunday. More than any other Dodger he has been responsible for Brooklyn's road record of six victories in eight games.

Eight Game Rampage

In eight games, the Negro flash has rapped off 15 hits in 34 times at bat for a .441 batting average. He drove in 17 runs to boost his league leading total to 32. His season batting mark now is .316.

He tops the circuit with 18 extra base swats including 11 doubles, two triples and five home runs. He also leads in stolen bases with six. In the field, he is playing a near-flawless game.

Robinson whacked a pair of home runs and a single last night to lead the Dodgers to a 6-1 triumph over the Pirates in Pittsburgh. Each of his blows came with Duke Snider on base. Snider collected four hits in five times at bat.

Backed by a 13-hit attack against Bob Chesnes, Hal Gregg and Cliff Chambers, righthander Ralph Branca rolled to his seventh successive triumph. The Brooklyn ace has not been beaten this season.

The victory, coupled with St. Louis' 3-1 win over the league leading Braves, enabled the third place Dodgers to cut Boston's margin to two games. They trail the second place Giants by a game and a half. The Giants lost a golden opportunity to take over the lead when they were beaten by the Cubs in Chicago, 8-2.

The fourth place Reds went 11 innings to nip the Philadelphia Phils, 4-3, in a night game in Cincinnati.

The Boston Red Sox, looking more like pennant contenders each day, won a tense 10-inning 8-7 thriller from the Detroit Tigers for their fourth straight triumph.

Bosox Climbing

The pre-season favorites for the American League flag now are in third place, but still four-and-a-half games behind the front-running New York Yankees. The Bronx Bombers had an easy time of it subduing the hapless St. Louis Browns, 13-3 at the Yankee Stadium.

The scheduled night games between Chicago and Washington, and Cleveland and Philadelphia were postponed by rain.

Bobby Doerr's single with the bases loaded scored two runs for Boston after the Tigers had taken a temporary 7-6 lead in the top of the 10th.

The Yankees took advantage of some loose fielding by the Browns to tally 10 times in the fifth to wrap up the ball game.

Phil Rizzuto's bases-loaded triple and Yogi Berra's three-run homer featured the uprising.

Musial Wins Game

Stan Musial's home run with a mate aboard in the fifth inning broke up a tight pitching duel between winner Harry Brecheen and loser Johnny Antonelli.

to give the cards the victory over the Braves. Brecheen permitted only five hits for his third victory.

A three-run homer by Catcher Al Walker was enough to down the Giants and snap a five-game losing streak of the Cubs. Left-hander Bob Chipman allowed only five hits for his third victory.

A squeeze-bunt by Ray Mueller scored Johnny Wyrostek from third with the run that gave the Reds their overtime triumph over the Phils.

Is It Poughkeepsie Or Is It Torrington?

The Colonials collected nine hits off veteran Emil Moscovitz last night in Stamford but failed to convert them into a single tally, the Pioneers racking up a 7-0 shutout triumph.

Manager Laviano's tossers conclude their road trip against the league-leading Bristol and then return to municipal stadium Thursday night to face the Poughkeepsie-Torrington squad.

Which is it? Stamford beat a steady tattoo of runs against starter Hamilton Graham, scoring in five consecutive frames after the first stanza. Harry Petty mopped up with a pair of scoreless rounds.

Highlight of the game was a home run by Stamford's Charlie Faughnan with a runner aboard in the fourth. Kingston had Moscovitz in trouble several times and left eleven stranded. The old Bushwick star had it when he needed it.

Danny Rourke is expected to pitch tonight's game in Bristol with Frank Demer going against Poughkeepsie-Torrington tomorrow.

Johnny Elenchin, Pete Elko and Frank Granato each delivered a brace of blows for the Colonials. Faughnan had two singles in addition to his homer for Stamford.

Calcutta Breaks Record

Calcutta, (AP)—The Calcutta port has established a peacetime record in cargo handling. Docks Manager K. Mitter reports that the port handled 718,000 tons in March, 1949, excluding petroleum landed in bulk. Such a high figure was previously achieved only during World War II, when Calcutta was a major port of supply for the Allies in the China-Burma-India theater. Mitter adds that tonnage presently being handled in Calcutta is on a par with that of any major port in the world, and certainly more than any port east of Suez.

Spanish-American Veteran to Lead Kingston Parade

Woodstock, May 25—Frederick N. Jansen, Zona, commander, Colonial Camp 73, Spanish American War Veterans will be the honorary grand marshal of the Memorial Day parade in Kingston.

Until two years ago, he was a member of Jones Camp 59, New York City. Jansen enlisted in the U. S. Army, May, 1898. He was mustered in as private, Company C, Eighth Division and sent to Camp Chippewa, Ga. A typhoid epidemic broke out in the camp preventing any of the company from seeing active service in the war with Spain.

"The conditions at the camp were such that the surgeon general was ordered to make a special investigation. Frederick and Royal saw active service in World War 2. Both boys enlisted in the navy. Fred had seven years and was gunner's mate, second class. Part of his service was in the Asiatic Theatre and the Normandy invasion. Royal had eight years service in the navy as boatswain mate, second class. His overseas service was in the Asiatic.

While an active member of the 8th Regiment Rifle Team, Jansen achieved the honor of distinguished expert. He still enjoys rifle range shooting. When asked if he did any hunting, he replied, "When you haven't a gun there's always something around, but when you have a gun, there's nothing around to shoot."

He came to Ulster county about 10 years ago and settled in Zona. Here he continues his contract work and is assisted by his sons. He is most enthusiastic about the Spanish Veterans' Organization which meets monthly in the Governor Clinton Hotel. "We're getting too old for much sociability," said Jansen "but we keep up with everything of interest to the veterans. We've had a good live wire in our camp, Pete Hurlman." He also stated that before he came to Kingston the organization here met but once a year.

Crafts Cooperative Begins New Season

Woodstock, May 25—Crafts Cooperative, Inc., opened for the season Saturday in its new, large, quarters on Maple Lane. The organization was founded last fall by 19 well-known Woodstock craftsmen. Since then it has more than doubled the number of active members which now total 43, residing throughout Ulster county. Among the more recent members are Victor James of Kingston and the Silverpoint Artists Group, who have on display interesting wood sculpture pieces; Gordon Gunning, high quality leather articles for men; Frances Elliott, Saugerties, handkerchiefs and hand-painted trays; Myrtle Strath, Kingston, aprons; Ella Covert, New Paltz, knitted lace; Sylvia Strubahl, Saugerties, knit afghan, and Margaret, Woodstock, unusual jackets for day and evening wear.

Of great interest to visitors are the original models made by Carl Walters for the glass doors at the Whitney Museum. Since his return from California, Walters has also created two beautiful pieces of his famous ceramic sculptures in his group of bowls, platters and jewelry. Other recognized craftsmen who are represented at Crafts Co-Operative are Eleanor MacGuffee, Alice Fischer, Edith Roberts Cook, Mary D. Smith, Carmen Schroeder, and Angela Van den Driessch all of whom have added new designs to their already known craftsmanship. The shop is open daily from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

5 doctors prove this plan breaks the laxative habit

If you take laxative regularly—here's how you can stop.
Because 5 New York doctors now have proved you may break the laxative habit, and establish your natural bowels regularity—three per cent of the cases treated did. So can you.
Stop taking whatever you now take. Instead: Every night for one week take 2 Carter's Pils. Second week—only one each night. Third week—only every other night. Then—nothing. Every day: drink eight glasses of water; eat a definite time for regularity.
Five New York doctors proved this plan can break the laxative habit.
How does it work? Because Carter's Pils "unblock" the lower digestive tract and from then on let it make use of its own natural powers.
Further—Carter's Pils contain no habit-forming drugs.
Break the laxative habit... with Carter's Pils... and be regular naturally.
Don't worry, overworking, overwork make you irregular. Generally—Carter's Pils temporarily. And never get the laxative habit. Get Carter's Pils at any drugstore for 32¢ today. I could be grateful the rest of your life.

Navajo and Hopi Indian Art to Be At Local Gallery

Woodstock, May 25—The Woodstock Artists' Association will open its season at the Woodstock Art Gallery with an exhibit and sale of prize-winning examples of arts and crafts by Indians of the southwest, from June 4 to 12 inclusive. Proceeds of the sale of the Indian artists' work will be used by the Save the Children Federation, a national child service organization, in its programs of aid to the Indian children.

Original designs in silver jewelry, massively wrought silver buckles, primitively patterned bandoleros, leathercraft and authentically dressed and bejeweled Indian dolls will be on display. The articles were made by the Navajo and Hopi Indians of Arizona and New Mexico, where the worst blizzard in the history of their reservation brought added suffering last winter to thousands of Indians who do not have enough to eat or to wear even in ordinary times.

Included in the display will be the top prize winners from competitions in various school areas on the reservation. The exhibit was previously on display in the Indian life museum at Flagstaff, Ariz.

Colorful Indian masks made by school children on the reservation will add a startling note to the collection, and the federation is trying to secure at least one of the Kachina dolls, described in a recent issue of the New Yorker Magazine as a tribal god, for the exhibit.

Will Rogers, Jr., is chairman of the Navajo Child Service campaign. In a recent communication to Thomas Penning, a director of the Woodstock Artists Association, Rogers wrote, "I came to New York for the express purpose of launching the Save the Children Federation campaign in behalf of Navajo children—for funds to help supply needed clothing and services."

"More than half of all Navajo children die before they become six years of age. Forty-five per cent of all the Navajos die of tuberculosis. Right here in these rich United States there are hundreds of Navajo children under-clothed and undernourished."

To Give Concert For War Memorial

Woodstock, May 25 — Sam Eskin, nationally-known collector, instructor, and singer of folk songs, has returned to Woodstock and will give a concert here in the Art Gallery, Saturday, May 28, at 8:30 p. m., for the benefit of the community war memorial.

Proceeds received from the concert will be used for the purchase of the bronze plaques to be placed on the visual memorial located off the Village Green.

Of his activities since his concert here last summer, Eskin said, "When I left Woodstock last summer it was with several immediate projects in mind. First, there was the North Carolina Folk Festival and at Chapel Hill which offered some promise of collecting folk songs in that area from the people who had gathered there for the festival. While there I heard of people in other parts of the state who might know songs and when the festival was over I proceeded to follow up these leads. Quite a few interesting items were collected in North Carolina when I hitchhiked up the trailer and started for Colorado, stopping and trying to get songs on route in Tennessee, Arkansas and Oklahoma."

In Colorado, Eskin taught at the Dyer-Bennett School of Minstrelsy at Aspen for two months and while there he collected many songs as well as filling singing engagements. Of this period he said, "Quite a few songs were recorded as a result of my efforts during these two months."

Continuing in his travels, he went down the west slope of the Rockies and across the Utah and Nevada deserts to sing for several colleges and various groups in California.
"Upon returning to California, I started out for Texas to continue some collecting which had been started the winter before and which showed promise of more material. Well, I never did get to Texas. And with good reason... I stopped off in a small town in southwestern Arizona to visit with some friends and there learned of a large migratory camp in the vicinity of which were pouring hundreds of transient agricultural workers, many of whom came from Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas. It just didn't seem to make sense to travel a couple of thousand miles into Texas when Texas was coming to me."

He stayed on and met the people who were coming in to work the current crops. "Here I ran into some of the richest pockets of folk song it had been by fortune, to find in many a month. These folk had all but forgotten many of the ballads and songs they had known as children and it was a great stroke of luck to be able to revive and record so many of them."

Many will recall the well known folk singer's generosity shown last summer when his listeners persuaded him to continue his songs long after the concert was scheduled to conclude. It may also be remembered that late comers stood inside and outside of the gallery to hear Sam Eskin.

Officials Protest Tax Rate Change

Woodstock, May 25 — Formal protest to a change in tax rate equalization affecting the town of Woodstock was filed in Albany last Thursday at a hearing held by the temporary commission of the State Board of Equalization and Assessments by Supervisor Kenneth L. Wilson. This temporary commission comprises the comptroller, budget director and member of the state tax commission.

The ultimate aim of this recently created board is to revise equalization rates throughout the state of New York. Toward this end, Ulster county was the first to be investigated in the state plan. While the equalization now has only to do with special franchise taxes on utilities, it is believed by many that in time it could well affect all tax assessments.

It is understood that the rates set by the state were based upon spot checks of property sold in various sections of the county. The market value then was compared with the total assessment on such property and the rate equalized. It is a known fact that assessments, generally, do not equal the current market values and in many instances the present rates of equalization are questionable. Furthermore, the towns of the county do not assess at a uniform rate.

What the state board is attempting to do is fix the ratio of assessed value to actual market value to the end of equalizing and making the apportionment equal with respect to all towns.

Should the tentative rates now fixed be put into effect, it is thought by some town representatives that a particular hardship would be placed upon their communities. At the same time, certain communities would benefit by such tentative rates. Insofar as the town of Woodstock is concerned, Supervisor Wilson stated that the tentative rate for this community would be reduced from 35 to approximately 32 per cent of actual value.

It was the contention of those town officials making protest at the hearings that the towns of Wauarsing and Olive were given equalization rates that are not deserved because of the extremely low assessments on utilities in those towns.

At the hearing, Supervisor Wilson was represented by John E. Egan, attorney for the town of Woodstock.

Poppy Campaign To End Saturday

Woodstock, May 25—The Woodstock Unit, 1026, American Legion Auxiliary, is appealing to the public to support its current Poppy Drive. The drive opened May 23 and will close May 28.

Mrs. William Kilgip, president of the Auxiliary, had this to say about the drive: "These crops paper poppies made entirely by disabled veterans in the hospitals are the official poppy of the American Legion Auxiliary. The money received from this poppy sale every year is used entirely for child welfare and rehabilitation work and much of it is retained for such work in our own community. The disabled veteran is paid for making these poppies so when we buy them we aid him in rehabilitating himself and his family. Help the living by buying and wearing an American Legion and Auxiliary official poppy in memory of those who paid the supreme sacrifice."

At the recent card party under Auxiliary auspices $45 was raised for the Kingston Tumor Clinic, and an expression of appreciation has been made to the public for its generous support.

A slate of officers will be submitted by the nominating committee at tonight's meeting. Besides election of officers, plans also will be made at the meeting for the annual Memorial Day exercises.

Around the Village

Woodstock, May 25—Mrs. Clara Chickester writes from New York that she and her pupils are working toward a recital to be held in August. She will also be heard in several concerts here during the summer months. Although residing in the city during the winter months, Mrs. Chickester has been coming to Woodstock each week to instruct her pupils and it is expected that she will soon return for the summer season.

Joseph J. Cosgrove, flew from Key West, Fla., to visit his mother, Mrs. Joseph J. Cosgrove, West Hurley road, during the week-end. Cosgrove is in the United States Naval Aviation and expects to fly to Argentina, Newfoundland, for two months study tour.

Mrs. Theresa Kessel, Wittenberg, slipped and fell at her home Saturday night when she suffered a broken arm. Alone at the time of the accident, she nevertheless made her way to the phone to notify Dr. Hans J. Cohn. Fred's taxi was sent immediately and brought the patient to Dr. Cohn's office for treatment and then to the Kingston Hospital.

Numerous friends offered their congratulations to Clarence J. McCarthy, Saturday evening, at the Woodstock Country Club, on the occasion of the well-known artists' birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Waters celebrated their fifteenth wedding anniversary Saturday evening with a party at their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Edwards, Maverick Road, left Monday morning by car for Iowa, where they will meet their son, Emmet Jr., who is finishing his freshman year at college. After short visits with relatives, they will return home in about 10 days.

A surprise birthday party was given Tom Reddy, manager of the Maverick Summer Theater, Saturday evening by his mother at Bird's Eye on the Maverick road.

The guests included Mrs. Kees, Mrs. Loe, Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. George Willis, Sandy Goodman, Mrs. Robert Phelps, Miss Gwen Davies, Mr. and Mrs. George Hard, Roy Graves, Roger Britt, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mallory and John Fluk.

Winters Believes Future Growth of Art Rests in U. S.

Woodstock, May 25—Upon her recent return to Woodstock following a seven-month tour of Europe, Denny Winters, one of the seven artists selected for the 1948 Guggenheim Fellowship awards, told her reporter, "I got a better perspective on living as well as painting during my trip. There is no doubt in my mind that the future of art is in America because of the spirit of experimentation here. Everywhere I went I sensed the feeling of great hope which the Europeans have in America and its future."

Denny and her artist husband, Herman Cherry, sailed for France last October and after arriving spent about two months with Monsieur. Bornet, an old-time steel engraver.

"Rating Italy as 'the most exciting thing in her life,' Denny and her husband spoke of the 11th and 12th Century mosaics, Etruscan sculpture and Roman sculpture. They also spoke of the works of Botticelli and Michelangelo. "One must see the originals to know what to feel and think about them," Denny declared.

The Guggenheim winner and her husband also visited the Louvre prehistoric caves, Van Gogh's country, Cezanne's studio and other places of interest. Entering the latter site, the local travelers found the studio untouched since Cezanne's death.

Visit Villages

While in Rome, they stayed at the American Academy and visited with Woodstockers Philip Guston and Harvey Fite. Guston won the Prix de Rome last year and will stay at the academy for another year. Harvey and Mrs. Fite have been in Italy since last year. He expects to have a one-man show in Rome this year.

The living standards of the average artist in the countries visited by the local artists were said to be far below those of the American artist. Denny explained that what artists here consider to be absolute necessities are looked upon as extreme luxuries by the Europeans. Denny also learned that very few foreign artists she had talked to owned automobiles. However, what the European artists lack in so-called comforts, is made up in the deference shown by the public. "They are made to feel that they are needed," Denny said, "while here we are continually fighting to justify our painting."

Denny also asserted that the anxiety concerning the possibility of a third World War has caused a great feeling of insecurity in the European artist and that this does not make for a healthy creative climate.

Because of this experience in the past in work camps, concentration camps or with the underground, the artists, Denny said, since the general public take an active interest in politics. Most of them are in favor of Socialism because the majority of the people are very poor and feel that is the only way to get any measure of economic security."

Guggenheim awards are granted to persons judged, on the basis of work accomplished, to be of the highest ability. Last February, Denny had a one-man show at the Frank K. M. Rehn Galleries when Carlyle Burrows wrote in the New York Herald Tribune about her work. "Miss Winters has ability and should make progress."

Her fundamental training began at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts and the Chicago Art Institute where she studied in 1932. Besides several one-man shows in New York and California, she has exhibited in numerous national shows. In 1941, she received first prize in the Denver National for her oil painting and the same year her lithograph took first prize in the San Francisco National Print Show. In the 1943 Los Angeles show, she received first honorable mention.

JUST A REMINDER—Not even this statue was safe, when political posters were plastered on a street corner in Trieste, as campaigning begins for the first local administrative elections since the war. Although the elections are local, the results may indicate the temper of the people with regard to the future of the free territory, smack on Russia's iron curtain.

Transportation Is Needed for Swim Classes at Lake

A project of providing transportation for Kingston children to and from Mirror Lake for Red Cross sponsored swimming lessons is being considered by the Kingston Lions Club.

At the regular club meeting Tuesday noon at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Harold Mason, field representative of the safety service of the Red Cross, explained that the local chapter will again provide water safety and swimming lessons without cost to local school children who enroll.

The course consists of eight weeks of daily instruction from 9 a. m. to noon, five days a week. Instructors and waterfront facilities will be provided by the Red Cross, he said, but in order to make it possible for the children to receive the lessons absolutely free of charge it will be necessary for someone to provide the transportation.

President Francis Martucci said the proposal will be given "careful consideration" at the next meeting of the board of directors.

(Use of the section of the beach at Mirror Lake owned by him has been donated to the local Red Cross chapter by William Singer. The lessons are expected to attract upwards of 150 children during the summer.)

Mrs. Evelyn D. Hubbard, executive director of Ulster County Chapter of American Red Cross, was a guest of the Lions at the Tuesday luncheon.

Also present was Royal Wray, of Liberty, governor of District 25, Lions International, which comprises five counties in this area. Governor Wray, who was on his official visit here, described several amusing and interesting experiences on a recent trip to Bermuda.

Announcement was made that the annual Blind Sale sponsored by the Lions will be held May 31 at 8 p. m. at Epworth Hall in the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church.

Next week's luncheon program is planned to honor Clifford Hall, a vice-president of the club, who is retiring from his position as principal of the Myron J. Michael School. Nominations of officers for the coming year will also be made Tuesday.

Says Cost Will Remain

Syracuse, N. Y., May 25 (AP)—Education costs will not decrease despite a downward trend in commodity prices, school administrators claim. Dr. Herbert A. Falk, Sayville superintendent of schools, explained to the State Association of School Business Officials yesterday: "We have adopted salary schedules and the public is constantly demanding more service in the field of education."

Catskill Elks Plan Flag Day Celebration

Catskill, May 25—The Elks Lodge has plans underway for Flag Day celebration on June 14 and indications are that the event will draw a record crowd to the high school auditorium where the featured speaker is to be Dr. Alfred Nielsen, noted lecturer and Masonic leader, who is professor of economics at New York University. Invitations are being forwarded to the Knights of Columbus, the Masonic orders, the American Legion and V. F. W. Posts and to the fire companies, asking their cooperation in paying tribute to the American flag, an observance carried out jointly by Elks' Clubs throughout the country. There is a possibility that a street parade may launch the proceedings.

Failed to Save Boy

New York, May 25 (AP)—A top five-story building, Rubin Ubinas, 35, was trying to get a new kite into the air yesterday. His eyes fixed on the kite, he walked backward toward the roof's edge. From a nearby rooftop, Anthony Martin, 17, saw the danger. He tried to leap a 10-foot airshaft to stop Ubinas. The shaft was too wide. Martin didn't make the other side. Simultaneously, the two boys plunged to the ground. Ubinas was killed. Martin was reported in critical condition today at a hospital.
